SICILY INVADED BY ALLIES

Strike First Major Blow On Land At Hitler's Europe

BEGINNING OF END IS SEEN BY PRESIDENT

Roosevelt Expresses Opinion on Invasion at State Dinner for Gen. Giraud.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 10 — President Roosevelt considers the allied invasion of Sicily as virtually "the beginning of the end" of Hitler's Europe, the White House disclosed today.

The Chief Executive expressed his reaction to the invasion at a last night for General Henri Giraud. He predicted confidently the liberation of France, referring to it in a manner which suggested the possibility that military operations designed to drive the enemy from French soil will develop eventually from England as well as Sicily.

"General Giraud," the President said, "can rest assured that the ultimate objective—we will do it and in the best way—is to liberate the people of France, not merely those in the southern part of France but the people in northern France—Paris."

Giraud is French commander in North Africa.

Moves Well Planned

President Roosevelt strongly indicated that the major moves had been well planned, for he continued:

"And in this whole operation, I should say rightly that in the enormous planning we have had the complete cooperation of French military and naval forces in North Africa—gradually the opposition has cooled and the older regime is breaking down.

"We have seen what has happened or is happening at the present moment in Martinique and Guadeloupe."

This was a reference to the Vichy-controlled islands in the Antilles, now in the process of coming under control of the French committe of liberation.

quietly about 8:15 p. m., wound

The state dinner, which started up with dramatic excitement after the President disclosed the attack on Sicily and General Giraud, responding with a toast to the President's toast to France, which climaxed his comments, proposed the health of the President and the glory of the United States. Giraud referred to this country as the great nation through which peace and freedom will be restored in the world.

White House Secretary Stephen Early today reported the Chief Executive's remarks as the dinner and told in general terms of General Giraud's reply.

Word Comes at 9 p. m.

Early related that the dinner ran quietly until about 9 o'clock when the President received word that the actual landings had been made on Sicily. All persons in the dining room were officials in some capacity or other. All but two of them were military or naval officers.

Across from Mr. Roosevelt were a lineup of notables including Secretary of State Hull, Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's chief-of-staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet.

For almost an hour Mr. Roosevelt kept his exciting news to himself—at least he made no open announcement of it. Then at the conclusion of the meal, shortly before 10 o'clock, the President prepared to propose a toast and this gave him the opportunity to announce the invasion and discuss the present situation in Europe.

He had just had word of the first attack against the soft un-

SICILY'S LOCATION, only about two miles from Italy's "toe," is clearly shown in this Associated Press map, which also presents diagrams pointing out the possible invasion routes into Italy itself.

Italy's 1,500-mile coastline has many invasion "soft spots" and her industrial cities have been devastated by bombs.

Reports of nationwide hunger, dislike for the Gestapo guards and for the war fan the Allied hope that Italy is ripe for invasion. (More pictures and maps of Sicily on Page 3.)

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 10 — A radio broadcast from Algiers at 6 p. m. (12 noon eastern war time) today said that "everything is going according to plans" in the allied invasion of Sicily. The broadcast was recorded by Reuters.

By The Associated Press

A huge allied invasion army of American, British and Canadian troops stormed ashore on the gun-studded beaches of Sicily today, landing in perhaps three or more key zones, and as the hours passed there was every indication of at least preliminary success.

By noon, more than 15 hours after the invasion began, the enemy made no claim of having turned back any part of the multi-pronged assault which President Roosevelt described in Washington as "the beginning of the end" of Hitler's Europe.

The attack was believed to have started between midnight and 3 a. m., Mediterranean time (between 6 p. m. and 9 p. m., eastern war time, yesterday.)

Axis Estimate Is 30 Divisions

Axis estimates indicated that a mighty host of at least 30 allied divisions—perhaps 450,000 troops — had been thrown into the invasion, together with 2,000 planes.

London sources pictured the attack as being evenly divided between battle-hardened American and British troops, supported by Canadian forces moved into the Mediterranean since the battle of Africa ended last June 10.

Sicily's importance, both to Italy and as the gateway to Europe, was emphasized long ago when Garibaldi issued his famous proclamation: "Here we make Italy or we die."

A bulletin from Italian headquarters said allied parachutists spearheaded the assault and reported fighting was in progress along the southern and eastern coasts, nearest to Italy.

First unofficial reports, according to the British news agency Reuters, said operations were going "according to plan."

Heavy axis reinforcement were reported streaming across the narrow Messina strait from southern Italy to combat the invasion.

London quarters hinted that the assault on Sicily might be accompanied at any moment by coordinated moves elsewhere along the Mediterranean coast.

These quarters said the invasion now in progress should not be regarded as the only landing nor even as "the" landing planned by the allies—thus implying that even greater events might be in the offing.

Dispatches from Ankara said there was a strong possibility of action in the Balkans this weekend, with the Germans feverishly reinforcing their defenses in the traditional "powder-keg" countries as well as key islands in the Aegean sea.

Axis and allied reports indicated today that Gen. Eisenhower's sea-borne invasion forces landed in at least three areas of Sicily.

Italian headquarters said allied troops landed on the southern and eastern coasts.

A German broadcast said the allies landed "in the southeastern part of Sicily," and declared it could not be stated whether landing attempts had been made at other points on the island.

An Algiers radio report said allied forces also swept ashore on the rock-studded western tip of the island, near the bomb-ruined port of Trapani.

British newspapers warned readers to expect heavy losses and possible setbacks before the conquest of Sicily, Italy's strongest island bastion, is completed.

"The enemy started last night, with support of strong air and sea formations and with dropping of parachutist units, the attacks against Italy," a Fascist communique said.

"Axis armed forces are decisively counterattacking the enemy's action."

Dispatches from allied headquarters said Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's combined forces swarmed ashore in bright moonlight, under cover of a terrific barrage of allied warships.

240 Miles from Rome

Sicily lies 240 airline miles from Rome and its eastern tip is only two miles across Messina strait from the "toe" of Italy.

"The battle of Africa is over; the battle of Europe has begun!" an Algiers broadcast said, in a message to the conquered nations of Europe.

Hours after the great test began, the enemy made no claim of having beat off or defeated any part of the allied sea-borne forces—nor was there any claim of the shore-bound Italian fleet having swung into action.

Swarms of allied bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters—engaged only yesterday in the final massive blows of an aerial offensive that had rocked Sicilian targets for weeks—roared across the Mediterranean narrows at dawn and formed an aerial umbrella for the fighting men aground.

(Axis broadcasts said the allies, spearheaded by parachute, units and strongly supported by sea and air, landed on both the southern and eastern coasts of the bomb-battered island which is a segment of metropolitan Italy. The Italian high command said "axis armed

Axis Armies in Africa Fell 60 Days Ago

By The Associated Press

Today's invasion of Sicily came two months after allied forces had crushed the resistance of a quarter of a million axis troops in Tunisia. Ever since then, axis broadcasts have talked nervously of transports, warships, and supply vessels moving in a steady stream eastward past Gibraltar.

In weeks of feverish preparation for defense, the axis had strung rings of minefields around the island, installed strong coastal batteries, and submarines constantly lurked in its waters.

Another hazard confronting Eisenhower's amphibious offensive was the nearness of enemy bomber bases on the mainland. Many of these, however, like the many airfields on Sicily itself, have been pounded steadily in recent weeks.

Sicily, densely populated with 4,000,000 persons in peacetime, was denuded of many of its residents as the invasion became more imminent, axis reports saying they had been evacuated to the mainland.

The Italian mainland itself, from two to three miles away across the narrowest point of the Messina strait at the eastern corner of the island, would be the next logical step for the allied armies.

Sicily, 9,860 square miles in area, roughly the size of Vermont, is mountainous and hilly.

Good harbors abound in the northern coast, but it is steep and cliff-bound, difficult to assault. Along the east, also fringed by bold cliffs, Mt. Etna towers into the sky.

Japan's air base on New Georgia island — the key to conquest of the Central Solomons—was raked Friday by the thundering guns of United States naval units; rocked by 2,000-pound bombs dropped from more than 100 Avenger torpedo and Dauntless dive bombers; and blasted by bursting shells of artillery on nearby Rendova island.

Bond Organizations Unified

County Groups Merge in Connection with State and National Change; E. J. Schoenlaub Heads Staff.

Consolidation of war bond activities under a single head and the setting up of a war bond sales organization for the duration highlighted action taken at a reorganization meeting of key city workers at war bond headquarters on North State street last night.

In the consolidation of the county war bond committee and the victory loan committee, the latter group formerly headed by the late Fred E. Guthery, Elmer J. Schoenlaub was named chairman of the Marion County War Finance committee.

Actually this move is the Marion county phase of a state and national reorganization and unification of war bond activities. The Ohio phase of the national reorganization was launched recently when Roy D. Moore of Canton, vice president and general manager of Brush-Moore Newspapers Inc., was appointed state chairman of the Ohio War Finance committee by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

Chairmen for Duration

Mr. Schoenlaub has directed war bond and stamp drives in the county since before Pearl Harbor. In each of the county's special bond selling drives, such as the May bomber drive, the Second Victory Loan drive and last months' Jap drive, Mr. Schoenlaub has named a Marion man to head the drive. In each case the appointee has set up his own organization.

Last night's action has no direct bearing on the county bond organization outside the city, in that A. J. Laudenslager will continue to head the rural sales staff. A corps of 64 workers under his leadership has participated in every one of the special bond events.

Attending the reorganization meeting and named block chairmen for the duration were: Clarence Brown, Robert Williams, James C. Woods, Roy Waddell, S. F. Dunnig, Joe Sennetta, J. T. Lynch, R. T. Lewis, Hoover Brown, H. A. Krigbaum, A. W. Kettle, John J. Stafford and Leonard Young. Unable to attend the meeting but named as block chairmen were: Lowell Guthery, Odell Thompson, Chester C. Roberts, Harold Hall, C. L. Ross, James Reed, Wilfred Schaffner and J. M. Strelitz.

Others attending the meeting were Louis E. Michel, secretary of the county war bond committee; Robert E. White, who was named co-chairman with Mr. Schoenlaub in the direction of the new organization, Earl J. Pierce, a member of the executive committee; Mr. Schoenlaub and Roy P. Shipton, who with U. A. Nystrom and James G. Lytle will serve as

RAF BACKS INVASION WITH RUHR ATTACK

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 10 — British heavy bombers made "a heavy attack" on the central Ruhr last night, it was announced officially today, and swarms of allied fighters and bombers followed this up with daylight assaults on European targets.

An air ministry communique said Gelsenkirchen, 27 miles west of Dortmund on the Duisburg-Hamm railway, was among the Ruhr targets hit.

Ten of the big RAF bombers were listed as missing from the Ruhr assault.

Among the great forces of daylight raiders heading out across the channel were many heavy U. S. bombers and fighters.

Several hundred planes passed over one district alone, and observers declared the formations may constitute one of the greatest daylight attacking forces from Britain.

RUSSIANS TAKE BIG TOLL OF NAZI ARMS

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, July 10—German and Russian troops remained locked in a series of bitter battles last night on the Belgorod front as attacking Nazi forces fought frantically to expand the slim wedge driven into the Red army lines two days ago.

Dispatches from the front said today that in the past 24 hours some positions in the sector at the foot of the 200-mile Belgorod-Kursk-Orel bulge had changed hands several times. In some sectors, the Russians said, separate Red army detachments were forced to withdraw only to launch vigorous counterattacks on the arrival of fresh reserves.

The attacking Germans were paying for their latest frenzied effort with the same reckless expenditure of armored strength and manpower as in past major offensives, the Russians said.

Make Forts of Tanks

Stationary tanks dug into the Russian plains and camouflaged into perfect ambush were reported to have knocked out 40 German tanks including 18 of the new 60-ton Tigers in one sector as Field Marshal Guenther Von Kluge pushed his all-out assault into its sixth day.

The Red army reversed usual battle tactics to smash back the latest German attacks, converting its armored divisions into rock-like strong points and hitching its artillery to mobile conveyers so that it could be speeded from point to point when the German

Land Attack on Sicily Means Drive on Europe Started

Allies Try What Eisenhower Calls "First Stage in Blow To Liberate Continent."

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

As the first smoke of the great battle of Sicily begins to lift we can see that what really matters is that at long last the allies have flung themselves boldly into what Commander-in-Chief Eisenhower describes as "the first stage in the liberation of the European continent"—an objective which the tense Germans this morning characterized as the biggest enterprise in history.

Sicily is the first stride in our new seven league boots. Beyond that craggy island lie vast reaches of strongly held enemy territory. History records nothing like the amphibious operations which we must carry out in order to achieve our goal.

The invasion which was inaugurated in the early hours today, when finely trained American-Canadian-English troops stormed their way onto the rocky shores of Sicily in the face of blazing resistance, mark the grand opening of the crucial period of the Hitlerian conflict. A few weeks from now we may know pretty well how long it's going to take to smash the Nazi fuehrer.

It Will Take Time

Mind you, while this inaugurates the continental offensive in a general sense, we shouldn't jump to the conclusion that the allies are going to race from Sicily to the bigger phases immediately. There may be some other tidying up operations among the Mediterranean islands first. We aren't

Treasures

A Sermonette

By REV. DANA AUSTIN
Pastor of the Fifth Memorial Baptist Church.

IF WE were to go on a treasure hunt, I suppose the most difficult thing to find would be those things that are treasures to our heart. The Lord Jesus told us when He was upon this earth "For where your treasure is there your heart will be also." (Luke 12:34) There is one thing sure about a treasure hunt and that is where your heart is, there you will be also.

It would be interesting to say the least if we could be taken into the secret confidence of the average individual and learn his true interest. In the year just passed the American people spent for paint and the paint industry made paint, all kinds of paint that is put on with a brush—one hundred fifty million dollars. During this same time the American women spent for face powder seven hundred fifty million dollars. That is one kind of treasure the kind that Jezebel stored up to have spoiled by Jesus. We Americans spend twenty dollars for luxuries, most of which are harmful, for every one dollar we spend for a good church, or benevolence. Yet, we would not be willing to be accused of robbing God.

PROBABLY you hold membership in some church in Marion or some church outside the city. You love your church—so you give so much that you want your name to appear on its records for the remainder of your days. You have a good job and with all the high salary trends and your war bond purchases, you probably are making more money than ever before. Your interest is more than a place to hang your name and to make your influence felt. If your church is not in the news for God you feel a bad business, and if it is that you are not supporting it. Are you reflecting your interest? We have received the promise of the Lord Jesus when He said "But seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." (Matt. 6:33) We make it the main business of our life making a living for the three score and ten years that we hope to live, and have no use for all borrowed time over that.

How different things would be in the world today if every member of a church were willing to do the thing before God which God expects him to do.

LET us turn to the book of Malachi the 3rd chapter verse 8. "Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings." The Lord says that the cattle upon a thousand hills are His, all the gold and silver is His, the earth and all that dwell therein are His. Because we have been pleased to rob God of His due, He is able to say to us as He was to Israel, "Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye have robbed Me, even this whole nation. Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in Mine house, and prove Me now herewith saith the Lord, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it." (Malachi 3:9-10)

There is one way that we can bring this present situation to an end and enjoy peace in this land of ours and among the nations and that is to about-face in our present trend. We cannot expect God to bless and prosper us if we continue to seek the things of this life and selfish ends; but we can expect Him to abundantly supply a home, clothes, food, every need of life if we seek Him and His righteousness as the supreme treasure of life. God has a promise only for those who obey him. Read Matthew 6:24 to 34.

Marion Church To Burn Mortgage Sunday

REV. H. C. AHRENS
Pastor

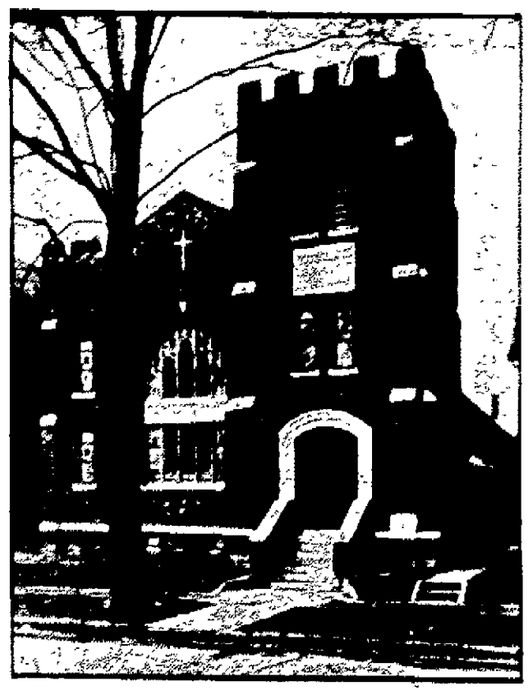
The Salem Evangelical and Reformed church will observe the fifteenth anniversary of the renovation of the present church building at 230 East Church street, and will burn the mortgage during the Sunday morning service tomorrow which starts at 10 a. m.

The church was renovated in 1928 during the pastorate of Rev. G. A. Kandler at a cost of $24,000. The financial committee which served then and for several years afterward consisted of Mrs. L. A. Cull, general chairman, Miss Edith Eibling, secretary, and C. F. Hittenrauch, treasurer.

The debt, at the time of the renovation March 18, 1928, was $15,000, and $8,000 of this sum was paid by the end of that year. Small sums were paid on the debt all during the depression, and in 1935 when the church observed its fiftieth anniversary, the debt was reduced to $4,500.

"Debt free in '43" was the slogan set up at the beginning of this year, and a campaign was started.



SALEM EVANGELICAL AND REFORMED CHURCH

A picture, four by six feet, was painted of the front of the church, and the objects on the picture were offered for sale. For sale included: doors, windows, cornerstones, and even the bricks. The purchaser's name was written on the object he bought. Twenty-four hundred dollars was thus realized and the debt was cleared away.

General chairman of the financial committee at the present time is Mrs. O. R. Hittenrauch. Miss Edith Eibling is secretary, and the treasurer is William Lloyd. Rev. H. C. Ahrens is the present pastor.

Members of the choir, building fund officers, Rev. Ahrens, and W. E. Maffett, Sunday school superintendent, will participate in the burning of the mortgage Sunday morning. Rev. R. J. Loew of Wapakoneta, a former pastor of the church from 1914 to 1919, will deliver the message.

The prelude, "Festival March" by Kroeger, will be played by Miss Helen Eibling, who will play "Onward Christian Soldiers" by Bingham for the postlude. The choir, under the direction of Miss Edema Koenig, will sing an anthem, and the Scripture and prayer will be offered by Rev. Ahrens.

Following the service, a potluck dinner will take place in the basement of the church. The church will furnish coffee, rolls and ice cream, and also a large cake with "Debt Free in '43" inscribed on it. A fellowship hour will follow.

No Machinery, Michigan Farmer Plows Hay Under

By The Associated Press

OWOSSO, Mich., July 10—Because he has neither hay loader nor harvest help, Robert Hudson, Bennington township farmer, has plowed under his entire hay crop of 30 acres in what he called a protest against the government's farm machinery rationing program.

Hudson said his crop included 10 acres of timothy and 10 acres of new alfalfa that cost $24 a bushel for seed. Because he was unable to get the loader, he said his only alternative was to plow it under.

In Shiawassee county, where he lives, only 16 hay loaders were allotted this year, or one to a township, Hudson said. Harvesting would have been impossible, he said.

Hudson said he had wired Michigan congressmen, farm bloc leaders and even the President last spring for machinery he needs but was able to get only a cultivator.

SON-IN-LAW HELD IN NASSAU SLAYING

By The Associated Press

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 10—The arrest of Sir Harry Oakes' son-in-law brought a startling climax today to the mystery which grew out of the death of immensely-wealthy British baronet.

Alfred De Marigny, dashing husband of Oakes' oldest daughter Nancy, was held on a formal charge of murder although he flatly denied he clubbed the 68-year-old knight to death.

Miami officers called to Nassau by the Duke of Windsor, governor of the Bahamas, helped colonial police make the investigation which led to the accusation against the yacht racer and sportsman, who dropped the title of count which he used on his native Indian ocean island, the British colony of Mauritius.

Shortly before De Marigny was taken into custody at Oakes' home, it was revealed that the body of the American-born multimillionaire was found Thursday morning on his charred bed, and that there were four serious bludgeon wounds on the head.

While her husband remained in custody, 18-year-old Nancy Oakes De Marigny, whose marriage in May, 1942, incurred the displeasure of her father, ended a vacation in Vermont to join her mother, Lady Oakes, at the family's Bar Harbor, Me., summer home.

Capt. E. W. Melchen, one of the Miami detectives, said the charge against the bearded De Marigny was based on "hair analysis, fingerprints and interrogation."

SAYS SCRAP NEED IS STILL URGENT

COLUMBUS, O., July 10 — Statements that scrap is no longer needed, or that dealers and mills refuse to purchase scrap materials, were termed as "unfounded rumors" by E. J. Mulligan, District Manager of the War Production Board, today.

Mr. Mulligan's statement was prompted by a flurry of alleged authentic statements that scrap consumers were comfortably supplied and scrap was no longer needed by the government.

"The War Production Board salvage program goes on as usual," said Mr. Mulligan, "scrap is still necessary and vital to America's war program. True, some of the consumers have a fair supply on hand but it is the government's aim to stockpile as many scrap materials as possible in order to be ready for any emergency. When the tempo of the war speeds up, scrap consumption increases as well.

"Statements that scrap is no longer needed are unfounded rumors. When our government has anything authentic to say, on whether or not scrap is needed, the public will hear about it from those who are authorized to give out the facts.

"We ask the public and others concerned, to continue to work with us on salvage. We ask the public to 'stand by' and help us accumulate specific types of scrap materials when and where these types of scrap are most needed. By well-timed programs, the government is desirous of conserving public time and effort. Spasmodic and ill-timed drives have lent weight to the rumors that scrap is unwanted because they usually fail."

Mr. Mulligan pointed out, however, that aggressive campaigns for tin cans and kitchen waste fats are necessary at this time, as are drives for nylon and silk hose.

Paint Industry Serves Both War and Home Front

Resourcefulness and versatility of the paint industry, which now is devoting the greater part of its production to war uses, is again reflected by the manufacture by some paint companies of new products.

While to date, the new departures have been undertaken by a relatively small number of paint companies, the new products include things for both war and civilian use which directly or indirectly help to relieve the drain upon scarcer materials and constitute an important wartime service.

For example, one large company has developed a new synthetic rubber, made from domestic non-edible oils. It is useful for making treads, mats, pads, erasers, hose, preserving jar rings and other products where the strength, elasticity and abrasion resistance of natural rubber are not required.

Another company is constructing a fractionating still for making a new turpentine derivative, while another firm has developed a process for using it to make a rubber-like material for adhesives for surgical dressings. The adhesive has the unusual quality of sticking to skin but not to a wound, says the report.

A large paint manufacturer and soybean processor, according to the same source, has also developed a process method of deriving sex hormones from soybean protein. Sex hormones were formerly obtained from Germany and Austria where they were made from animal proteins.

Synthetic rubber and some drug products as logical additions to the paint business as a permanent result of this wartime experience also are predicted.

Findlay Woman Talks to Townsend Members

Townsend club No. 4 met Thursday night at the Central Labor union hall with Mrs. Rhoda Addis of Findlay as guest speaker talking on "Training of Young People in Germany and What It Means to This Country." Music by the choir preceded a reading by Mrs. Effie Noe.

Beacher Hess of Washington, D. C., will speak July 19 on the Townsend plan at the Y. M. C. A. All members and their families are invited.

Boy Scout Camp Opening Set

Scheduled for July 25 Following Delay in Repair Program; Three Camping sessions Set.

If all repairs to camp equipment and improvement to other facilities are completed by that time, the 1943 summer camping season of Boy Scout Camp John A. Owens will get under way on July 25, Hugh Hay, Scout executive for the Harding area announced today. Camp Owens is located about three miles south of Marion.

Opening was originally scheduled for July 18 but a dearth of labor and a shortage of building materials will prevent face-lifting of the camp from being finished by that time.

The camp will as usual be open to all Scouts of the Harding area. A larger attendance than in past years is expected by area Scouters since Camp Michael, Bucyrus, which operated simultaneously with Owens until this season, will not be open for regular camping sessions. Only brief week-end outings and a camporee in the autumn will be held at the Bucyrus camp.

First Period

First period at Camp Owens will be held from July 25 to July 31. Two other periods will be held, the second from Aug. 1 to Aug. 7, and the third from Aug. 8 to Aug. 14.

The initial session will be featured by "Treasure Island Week." This will consist of numerous treasure hunts, with various items being used as the booty. The second period will be officially known as "Explorer's Gold Rush Week." A reasonable facsimile for the valuable metal will probably be invented by camp leaders during this period. Scouts will turn prospectors and compete in a gold rush contest. The last period will be termed, "Indian Pageant Week". In this period, Scouts will revive the traditional Indian ceremony of Hiawatha.

G. L. Rader, superintendent of schools in Sycamore and scoutmaster of Troop 38 there, will assist Mr. Hay as general supervisor of the camp. He will also serve as camp provisional Scoutmaster.

Activity Heads

The following area Scouts and Scouters will serve as directors of different parts of the camp program:

Vernon Orth, Eagle Scout of Troop 15, Marion, waterfront director and provisional Scoutmaster; Dr. Robert Gray of Prospect, in charge of rechecking of Scout physical examinations and camp physician; R. M. Miller, Harding area Scout commissioner, in charge of the rifle range; Dan LaMarche, assistant rifle range director; Lloyd Garver, director of the kitchen boys; Theodore Rodes, sanitation, kitchen and dining hall director; Floyd Webb, handicraft director, Lloyd Garver, archery director; Robert Mason and Orth, nature trail co-directors; G. L. Rader, sports director; and Mr. Hay, camp fire, ceremonial and evening game supervisor.

During each of the three camping week, several films will be shown to the Scouts. On July 29, the following will be the movie bill; "International Spy," seven reels, "Fly's Bride," one reel, "Water Sports," one reel, and "New Thrills," one reel.

The Aug. 5 film program will consist of "Mystery Plane," six reels, "Uppercutlets," two reels, "Pink Lemonade," one reel, and "Lake Carrier," one reel.

Aug. 12 bill will be: "Frontier Town," six reels, "Mickey's Tent Show," two reels, "Boy Meets Dog," one reel, and "MacArthur and Manila Bombed," one reel.

FACTORY TRAINING TO BE DISCUSSED

O. S. U. Professors To Meet Marion Manufacturers.

Professors Harry H. Nold and Michel Jucius, members of the faculty of Ohio State university, will meet with members of the manufacturers' council of the Marion Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night in the chamber offices to discuss wartime training classes for Marion's industrial employes.

Professor Nold is director of the engineering, science and management war time training division of the university and Professor Jucius is associated with the college of commerce.

The meeting is being held to determine present of near future needs of Marion industrial plants and what instruction can be offered to help relieve man-power shortages.

During the last two years 16 classes have been held by the Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the Ohio State university and the Marion public schools. Among the subjects offered have been accounting, foremanship training, personnel training, safety and varied engineering subjects.

Building Quiz

Q. I have a medium colored maple kitchen set which I should like to clean and polish. Should I wash it with a mild soap-flake solution in lukewarm water and then polish with a furniture polish?

A. I presume the furniture has a varnish finish. If so, wash it with the thick suds of a mild soap, and not with soapy water. Remove all soapsuds by wiping with clean damp cloths and wipe dry. Never flood the furniture with water. Polish with a good quality furniture polish or paste wax.

Q. The calcimine on my cellar walls is peeling and flaking off. How can I remove the calcimine entirely? What sort of paint can I use on the walls? The walls are not wet, but there is a certain amount of dampness that must be taken into account.

A. To take calcimine off rough concrete walls, wet down a small area with warm water, then scrub it off and rinse with clear water. The addition of about a quarter-cupful of household ammonia in each pail of scrub water will hasten the removal of the calcimine. Finish with a damp-proof cement-base paint, the kind that comes in powder form and is mixed with water. Mason material dealers handle this product.

Q. My house has a concrete water tank which has been painted. This paint is now peeling. Is it possible to buy paint which can be put on this tank which will not peel?

A. Try a cement base paint that is intended for masonry. You can get it from a dealer in mason supplies. The old paint should first be removed, which can be done by scrubbing with a strong, hot solution of washing soda in water. Rinse well after removal of the paint. Protect the floor and wall from splashing.

Q. Some time ago you told about a certain acid that would kill tree roots that had grown into the drain pipes. Please let me know the name of the acid and where I can buy it.

A. Dissolve a pound or two of copper sulphate in a pail of warm water, and pour it down one of the fixtures leading to the drain. Be careful in handling this poisonous chemical. Of course, if the pipe is badly matted with roots, it may be necessary to remove them first; then use the chemical to prevent further growth. If you can locate a plumber who has an electrical root-removing machine with rotary blades, the job can be done without digging up the pipe. This machine operates through a clean-out opening in the soil pipe. For this service, look in the classified section of your telephone directory under the heading "Sewer Cleaning" or "Plumbing." Copper sulphate can be purchased from dealers in chemicals, also from some of the mail-order houses. If you have any difficulty ask your local druggist to get it for you and give you the name of a dealer in chemicals.

Your Electric Range

Our fighting men are getting the materials that go into electric ranges, too. So, while they're "taking care" of our enemies, the least you can do is take care of your range. You can keep it cooking for a long time to come by following a few common sense rules.

First of all, don't pretend to be a repair man. When the units start balking, call the man who knows how to fix them. He can then check on whether your stove is level, see that the vent is clean and make sure the wiring is in tip-top shape.

Be fair to each surface unit. They'll all last longer if you rotate using them. It's just habit to heat one 90 per cent of the time—usually the left-front unit.

Sparkling cleanliness will prolong the life of your range. Don't wait until Saturday; wash the enamel with soapy water once a day, and dry it. Spilled acids—fruit juices, vinegar and milk—dull enamel unless you wipe them up immediately.

After using the oven, wipe it out, too. A mild abrasive may be used on the pan beneath closed units, in the oven, for the broiler pan, and on chrome bands around the units.

Food spilled on open surface units should be burned off. A stiff brush or sharp instrument may damage the heating coils. Salt, soda, sugar and soap are especially injurious to the coils.

Want to save electricity, too? Then use pots and pans that fit the surface units. A little pot on a big unit is wasteful. So is using high heat when a low heat will do.

Crawford Co. Red Cross Hears Secretary's Report

BUCYRUS, July 10—Members of the board of directors of the Crawford county Red Cross chapter heard a summary of the training course completed recently in Washington, D. C. and Alexandria given by Mrs. Bernice Stark, new county executive secretary, when the board met in Red Cross headquarters Thursday.

Looking toward the establishment of a permanent office here a committee including C. L. Albright and J. A. Blicke was named to select a site and equip the office.

The board was advised that the American Legion auxiliary has offered to assume the responsibility for the next quota of Buddy kits which has been set at 288 kits.

Five Million American Homes Reached by Federal Housing Agency's Loans

Special to The Star

WASHINGTON — More than $6,803,000,000 in loans by private lending institutions financing the construction, purchase or repair of approximately 5,400,000 homes, have been insured by the Federal Housing Administration since its establishment nine years ago, Commissioner Abner H. Ferguson has announced. Close to one-half of these loans have been insured since the start of the war production program in the summer of 1940 and have been used in large majority for the construction or repair of dwellings in war industry centers, Mr. Ferguson said.

As an operating unit of the National Housing Agency, the FHA now is assisting private builders in carrying out their share of the war housing construction necessary to meet the needs of essential war workers, he declared.

Insured by FHA

All applications for priorities assistance for the construction or conversion of privately financed war housing units are filed with FHA field offices, which process them on behalf of the War Production board. In addition, the mortgages financing upwards of 85 per cent of the new war housing being built by private builders are insured by the FHA under Title VI of the National Housing act and a substantial proportion of privately financed war housing conversions are carried out through loans insured by the FHA under Title I of that act.

During the early years, the FHA plan of loan insurance was an important influence in reopening the private capital market for home financing, in stimulating revival of new home construction, and in making possible a large volume of needed repairs to home properties which had been deferred during the depression period.

At the same time, the long-term amortized mortgage, combined with the small down payments required under the FHA plan, facilitated home purchases by large numbers of families who previously were unable to afford the purchase of a home, he said.

Devoted to War Effort

With the advent of the national emergency, the FHA plan was adapted to assisting construction of war housing through insured loans. For more than a year, FHA insurance of new housing has been available only for privately financed projects built under local NHA war housing quotas and conforming to WPB requirements as to use of critical war materials.

Through loans insured by the FHA since its formation in 1934, approximately 1,200,000 families have purchased or rented living quarters conforming to minimum FHA property standards and approximately 4,250,000 properties have been improved or repaired through Title I loans.

Through regular monthly amortization, which is required on all FHA-insured loans, and through prepayments, the outstanding principal amount of the $6,800,000,000 loans insured since 1934 has been reduced by more than one-third. On March 31, 1943, the unpaid balance of all outstanding FHA-insured loans was estimated at $4,140,000,000.

Editor Denies Charge He Was Agent of Japs

NEW YORK, July 10—Frederick Heizer Wright, 40-year-old copy editor of the New York Daily News, pleaded innocent in federal court yesterday to an indictment charging he served as a paid agent of the Japanese government for 10 years prior to Pearl Harbor without notifying the state department.

Judge John W. Clancy fixed $5,000 bail and set the case down for trial Aug. 9.

If found guilty on both counts of the indictment Wright would face a maximum penalty of 12 years in prison and $15,000 fine.

Ships

THE gradual settling down of World war II to fundamental terms, sometimes obscured by sensational incidents like the collapse of France and the sucker punch at Pearl Harbor, has brought ships into proper perspective.

Ships are not sensational. They are not novel. They can not soar through the air with loads of bombs. But they do carry almost everything the United States is supplying in the war. They are the chief reliance of the Japanese service of supply. They are the foundation of Great Britain's strength.

Without plenty of ships and the means of protecting them, the Axis can not win. Everything that affects the balance of shipping strength is vital. The fact that Norway's huge merchant marine fell into the hands of the United Nations, instead of the Axis, may prove more important in the long run than the defeat of Poland. The consistent success of the United States navy against Japan, only first class naval power in the Axis triumvirate, is a major disappointment in Tokyo, Berlin and Italy. The Italian navy's inability to maintain Mussolini's policy of Mediterranean monopoly was one of the first tell-tale cracks in the Axis alliance. When at least nine and possibly 11 Japanese warships are destroyed in one encounter and at the cost of one United States warship, every Japanese militarist can sense the doom of the empire that was to have been built at the expense of American interests. The announcement just made in London that approximately one million tons of Axis shipping have been lost since the Allied occupation of North Africa is important as the blasting of the Ruhr that has scattered its workers. The side that comes out ahead on ships—the thousands of cargo boats and the hundreds of fighting ships to protect them—will win the war. Without ships, other weapons, however potent, can not be brought to bear.

Our Hope in Asia

BEFORE the United States has avenged Pearl Harbor it will have discovered the importance of China in its plan of security. No doubt it will do this as painfully and slowly as it has discovered—and rediscovered—its dependence on the British empire.

Yesterday was the sixth anniversary of the incident at Peiping that marked the beginning of Japan's campaign of Asiatic expansion. Against all the rules of common sense, the Chinese have continued to fight back. They lacked everything they needed, except the one indispensable weapon—their dignity as a people who want sovereignty. That one thing has upset Japan's careful calculations. The Japanese believed the Chinese would yield to reason—Japanese reason—as well as force. They have yielded to neither.

Hope of a strong China ousting the invader from its land and furnishing bases for the isolation and reduction of the Japanese islands from the sea and sky is at the bottom of all Allied plans for victory over Japan. It is a left-handed tribute to the Chinese that the United States and Great Britain both take their continued resistance for granted. The Chinese, who vastly greater provocation, have caused none of the uneasiness in London and Washington that has marked the attitude of the Russians in their military alliance with Axis enemies. They still are working, as they have waited half a decade, for recognition of their rightful place in the world alliance against tyranny. In the future of United States security, no nation has earned more gratitude or deserved more considerate treatment.

Democracy Needs No Apology

NOTHING gives the lie to confidence in democracy like Americans who feel called on to apologize for it. They are red-necked and embarrassed at present because the government's conduct of the war on the home front is being opened to criticism and change, which is clearly in line with the democratic way of doing things. They literally writhe in humiliation because their countrymen sometimes use their inalienable right of free speech to make caustic and lactose remarks. They are bothered by congress, by the fact that touchy subjects like labor's right to strike in wartime are discussed openly and by the general impression of confusion that the United States must be making on other governments and their people.

One gathers they would be more comfortable in their minds if all the country's strains and dislocations were concealed beneath the superficial efficiency of authoritarian rule, which simply denies that anything ever can go wrong. They actually compare the United States with Russia and even with Germany—where everything seems to go like clockwork—as though not realizing the impudence of comparing dictatorship with democracy during a war to make international dictatorship impossible.

Democracy needs no apology. If its processes shame its own sensitive beneficiaries, or shock critical observers in South America, where the United States is trying to make a good impression, that may be unfortunate but it is inevitable. If one characteristic of democracy is more conspicuous than the rest, it is the fact that confusion, like everything else, is conducted in the open.

Propaganda Methods Used in Handling Story of French Situation in U. S.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

FOR A LONG TIME NOW, but in recent days even more blatantly and recklessly, American public has been subjected to an officially inspired campaign of propaganda on France.

It has nearly deceived a large number of well-intentioned people. But not for long. There is a free press in this country and in Great Britain. What is more, the policy which the propaganda supports is wholly unworkable.

The mechanics of the propaganda are these: Access to the data about our French policy is under strict control, on the ground of military secrecy. Then news and opinion is fed out through reporters who publish the selected news and opinion, ascribing it to "high officials," "indisputable authorities," etc., etc. Exciting tidbits are also fed out to the professional columnists, particularly, a journalist of standing is selected, given special access to information. In return for this special privilege, information which has to come out because it can no longer be concealed, is presented to the public in a form most agreeable to those in authority.

Manipulation Seen

The net result of the whole procedure is the manipulation of public opinion by preventing an independent examination of the facts. This method of manipulation is wholly indefensible, and a far more serious impairment of the freedom of the press than are the unnaturally simplified or one-handed, reporting the state would be required to make fronts in effort to raise funds before federal help would be given.

Air Raids of Two Wars

A National Geographic Bulletin.

AVIATION'S advance as a war weapon is clearly shown when facts about 1918 and 1943 British and German raids on Germany are compared.

Principal base for World war I raids on Germany industry was near Nancy, in northeastern France. Nancy is 350 air miles southeast of London. Nazi-held for the past three years, it averages perhaps 200 miles closer than present bases somewhere in Britain to the 250 German industrial centers that they have been targets in the current allied round-the-map, round-the-clock bombing campaign.

In today's raids, giant new bombers carry 8,000-pound bombs designed to blast inside that compile 1,300 miles of round-trip travel; Berlin, 577 air miles from London, is one of a score of reich cities already visited 50 or more times by RAF raiders.

In November, 1918, the farthest goal of the bombardier setting forth from Nancy was Cologne, 80 miles short of the Ruhr. Round-trip maximum was 340 miles. Stuttgart, Mannheim, Mainz and Koblenz close by along the upper Rhine, were the chief night-and-day repeat targets. Late in October, record-breaking 1,650-pound bombs had been flown nearly a hundred miles and dumped on rail yards at Kaiserslauten.

Machines capable of tripling established distance records and bombing Berlin from England were reported ready for use on Nov. 8. They were never put to the test, however, and the German armistice went unscathed. Three months earlier, a 12-plane squadron flew 150 miles to Frankfurt on a raid notable for the number of planes, the German aerial opposition encountered, and the 5½-hour duration of the flight.

A tonnage comparison reveals air war progress. In the last five months of World war I, British aviators dropped 550 tons of bombs on Germany, in the small southwestern area they were able to reach. During a single weekend of June, 1943, British and American bombers released 5,250 tons of bombs on industrial targets in the reich.

Industry Needs Water To Win the War

By V. C. Jones in the Wall Street Journal.

WELL water is moving out of the free-as-air classification into the realm of scarce materials.

War production board soon will step in to tell corporations and municipalities where they may dig the wells to supply water for industrial and human needs.

Allimation order now in preparation will decree that no well may be dug until WPB's office of war utilities has had opportunity to study what the effect will be on other wells and has passed on its exact location.

Water supply is divided into two major categories — surface and underground. Ample rainfall of the last few years has eliminated the former as a problem. Only New Mexico and Arizona now are having surface supply troubles. But underground supply is becoming an increasingly sore headache—and not to the war effort alone.

The limitation order is part of a major program now under way to conserve the nation's water supply currently drawn on by war production at an estimated 30 per centabove normal. Besides well limitation, the government also is taking these two steps:

A survey of water utilities to determine deficiencies in their systems which would result from extended drouth conditions, as well as an estimate of materials which would be required to maintain service. This already is under way.

A nationwide water conservation program. This still is in the planning stage.

DANGER of water shortage is at present strictly potential —rainfall during the last three years has been from 4 per cent to 12 per cent above normal. In most areas reservoirs are spilling. Stream flows have been high generally and there has been some flooding. Perennial underground supplies in sand and gravel deposits are well filled.

But WPB warns that the outlook may change suddenly with drastic effect. A prolonged drouth, it says, would slow down the war effort sharper than anything else. There are substitutes for power and fuel, but none for water.

Importance of water as a prime war resource has grown in the past year for war production. Here are some reasons:

It takes 75 to 80 tons of water to manufacture a ton of ingot steel; 175 tons before the steel is fabricated.

Production of a gallon of gasoline requires from 70 to 100 gallons of water.

One of the largest alcohol-producing plants uses 326 gallons of water for each gallon of alcohol produced.

Before an airplane engine is approved for installation, from 125,000 to 130,000 gallons of water have been used in testing.

At the new synthetic rubber plant at Institute, W. Va., 120,000 gallons of water are used each minute.

Since Pearl Harbor, reports WPB, demands for water in this country have exceeded all predictions and have placed phenomenal strain on many of the 13,500 water utilities. These water works serve 85 million persons. About 9,000 of them are municipally owned, the remainder privately. More than 500 of them bear a major proportion of the war burden.

A RECENT compilation of deficiencies—in supply, pumping, treatment, and distribution and storage facilities — revealed a serious status in one or more of the categories in 272 cities and potential deficiencies in 119 others. Approximately one-third of these were in supply, with distribution and treatment next in order.

In most war-affected areas, substantial additions had to be made to plant and distribution systems. Entirely new sources of supply had to be developed in several places.

At Newport News, Va., em-

Water, one of America's priceless resources, must be conserved for the national security in the war effort. This informative article by A. Washington correspondent for The Wall Street Journal describes steps being taken by WPB to control the national supply of well water.

barkation point which received the hardest impact of the war, a new supply had to be obtained from a river several miles away. San Diego, Calif., next worst hit, is potentially in danger. It has a three-and-a-half-year storage, which at present rate of use, is lowest to drop below a two-year supply (it would take that long to complete a new source). Because of its military activity and population, this city will increase in importance as the war against Japan is intensified. A serious drouth would force it to employ emergency measures, possibly to bring water all the way from the Arizona Colorado.

Trouble at Detroit, third worst area, was caused chiefly by distribution. War plants in this peripheral demanded so much water the city's pumping system was unable to bear the load. The government now is building a booster system to help in the emergency. Other industrial cities have had similar troubles and have had to extend their pipelines into the suburbs. Cleveland and Buffalo are examples.

NEW YORK has never been a problem. In New Jersey a heavy industrial area, trouble has been averted by interconnecting the major reservoirs. When one faces a shortage, lines to others of more plentiful supply are opened.

Louisville, Ky., has had serious shortage, WPB reports. The same is true of certain areas of Illinois, where industry's needs have drawn from the supply of nearby cities. Joliet, for instance, is a major sufferer.

Along the coastal regions has appeared a problem other than supply. As the fresh water level drops, salt water pushes in, spoiling wells and forcing industry to drill municipalities to seek other sources. An outstanding instance of this occurred at Mobile, Ala., where industry's needs in these areas, where a new supply and a new filter plant were necessary.

Mill Creek Valley, near Cincinnati, is having the same trouble. So are Galveston, Corpus Christi and Texas City, Texas, Baton Rouge, La., and Wilmington, N. C. Salt intrusions were serious in Florida, but the situation now is improving in most areas of the state except around Miami.

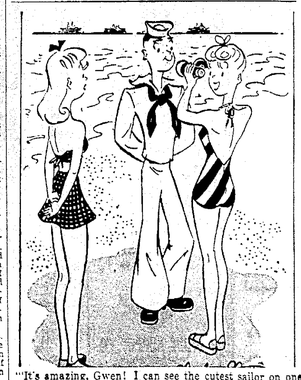
Some of the wartime water problems have been individualistic. Bryan, Texas, site of Texas A. & M., for instance, had never had trouble. During the winter supply was adequate, but because the town's population and the college's 5,000-man student body, while in the summer—time of peak load — the students were away on vacation. After the war started, the school remained open on a 12-month basis, and water during warm weather became so acute the government had to assist.

CONCENTRATION of war industries in areas where ground water elevations for many years have been receding at an alarming rate has developed some serious problems. Supply deficiencies and deterioration in water quality, especially, in many long-established public and private water systems have been seriously affected by new wells operated in the vicinity of their water works.

This uncontrolled competition over well water — the condition that has led to WPB's limitation order—has been concentrated in the underground supply for a logical reason. A major part of war industry's water is used for cooling purposes, and subterranean supply is several degrees cooler than that from the surface. Avarice is the obvious choice between the two, the government has urged plants to use surface sources during the summer and the other during the summer.

In its water program, based on conservation of both water and critical materials, WPB urges water utilities to defer major extentions and betterments, but not to defer maintenance. Its advice goes something like this:

"The longer the war lasts, the more important a scheduled maintenance program becomes. We can not risk an epidemic of interruptions in war production next year resulting from lack of maintenance this year. There is no economy in deferring essential maintenance: in fact, the cost in materials and production capacity for replacements may exceed many times that of initial maintenance."



"It's amazing, Gwen! I can see the cutest sailor on one of those boats out there!"

Doc Gallup Shows Where Smart Money Will Be When Democrats Pick Their Man for President.

By DAMON RUNYON

I HOPE and trust that those persons who have been going around muttering, "They say FDR will lose the second round if he runs again" have taken the second count on the Dr. Gallup's poll on that proposition which shows 80 per cent of the southern Democrats favoring the President against any other man so far mentioned as a possibility.

I suppose the good doctor is well aware that this is one poll that will arouse dark suspicion as to its authenticity among the IHR's (I Hate Roosevelts) of the nation. If he is in any doubt on that point, I hand him herewith some of the reactions I have personally developed from the IHR's in my immediate neighborhood by just mentioning the result of the poll:

"Aw, it's fixed."

"Who cares what Gallup says?"

"Who does Gallup think he is?"

"Nuts to Gallup."

"To heck with Gallup."

"Why don't he (Gallup) lay down and die!"

I could have got a lot of others if I had gone into the next block, but these will give the good doctor a rough idea.

I imagine he has had similar reactions from other polls among those who did not fancy his tidings. Folks like to hear only good news and this is the year for the IHR's.

I CAN remember several of the good doctor's polls that I felt like challenging in open court because they were contrary to my own fixed opinions, but I never got around to it. Maybe this one, however, as it coincides with my own personal handicapping for future-book betting purposes is the most reliable of the lot, even if I had a zillion dollars to lay at 10 to 1 right now that President Roosevelt will carry the solid south if he runs again and 5 to 1 that he will run again.

You just think hard for the next few days and see if you can name a Democrat who might be able to get the Democratic nomination away from him if he goes after it. As far as the convention delegates are concerned he has the same Count Fleet against those lizards and beetles that have been trying to catch Sonny Herb. Harold Stassen may be out there somewhere but some fresh-ing bloke says Count Fleet is as good as ever and will be the only horse he can call because Man o' War nearly always had something besides Sarazen for competitors.

Mr. Stassen, Governor Johnson may has had no weaker competition than confronts President Roosevelt at this writing for the Democratic nomination. I don't know some stuff will be what the racing fraternity is to continue my sports similes calls a walkover, which happens when the favorite is left entirely in advance and just strolls around the course to take the top money.

BYRNES? Wallace? Farley? McNutt? The good Dr. Gallup popped all those names at the present time and included President Roosevelt's in asking "Which one of these men would you prefer as the Democratic candidate for president next year?" Byrnes got 8 per cent favorable replies in his own home county, Wallace 6, Farley 5 and McNutt 2. I think jokes would have done that well.

The IHR's in the Democratic party are just as confused in their thinking that anyone has a chance to beat the President for that nomination, no matter how much they are encouraged by the intervening battles in Washington. They should remember that Abe Lincoln had just as many beefs in his official family when he was running the north end of the civil war, but it did not affect him politically.

I imagine this column will be as unpopular with the IHR's as the good Dr. Gallup's poll, but bear in mind I am discussing the matter strictly as a betting proposition. When it comes to laying it on the line, I see no reason for permitting sentiment to rear its sinister head and warp my judgment.

Confusion

There are two sides to the fight between Vice President Wallace and Secretary of Commerce Jones, but at least one man in Washington, an official of the rubber administration, is inclined to have an open mind about battles in Washington.

Some time ago he led a party to the upper reaches of the Amazon to search for wild rubber. "We found enough to justify bringing it out, but an infinitesimal amount compared to the country's war needs," he explains. "When I got back to the coast I cabled my report and put in a requisition for six river barges.

"A few weeks later, I got an answer saying 36 barges were on the way. I was lying awake nights trying to figure what I was going to do with those 30 extra barges.

"Then, one day in pops some fellows from Washington. They were from BEW and they were going to conduct an expedition to the Amazon to survey the possibilities for wild rubber.

"I figured it was about time I got back here to Washington to find out just what is going on. Now I'm going back to Brazil. Things are simpler there, even when you get 36 boats for every six you order."—Associated Press.

Marion State Guard Has First Birthday

MARION'S Ohio State Guard company—Co. H—quietly celebrated its first anniversary this week while participating in its annual field training session at Camp Zaleski in Vinton county. The company will return to Marion Sunday noon.

Formed Year Ago

It was just a year ago that Marion, deprived of its National Guard companies by the call of war, established Co. H. In the one-year period, the company has had some trying times, but despite difficulties has carried on a well-rounded program of activities under the direction of its commanding officer, Capt. Carl F. Ebert who long had been associated with National Guard activities here.

The war's drain on the community's manpower in the last year has taken 13 men out of the company for military service. Men have been obliged to drop out for other reasons, such as moving away or taking war jobs that interfere with the company's activities. As a result, the personnel has changed almost completely since the company's formation. Its present strength is 3 officers and 62 enlisted men and three officers. Its authorized strength is 50 men and three officers.

Head Home Defense

Although the details of State Guard activities are known in comparatively few persons, Marion residents generally can well afford a kindly interest in the company's welfare because it actually comprises the first line of home defense against any kind of an emergency that might arise.

The State Guard replaces the National Guard as the state's sole defense force. The organization is uniformed and equipped jointly by the state and federal governments but can only be called to duty by the governor of this state. The guard is subject to call to any part of the state but not outside of its borders.

Eligible for membership are all male citizens between the ages of 18 and 64 who meet the guard's physical qualifications.

Recruiting Program

The rapid turnover in membership during the guard's first year of existence has made necessary steady recruiting among eligible Marion county men. The need for additional recruits still exists and is expected to remain, the guard's foremost problem in its second year of operation.

Men who can meet the physical qualifications are being urged to enlist. A school for specialists and non-commissioned officers is to be held every Monday night at the Armory on West Church street, home of Co. H. Regular drill is also held each Tuesday night.

To maintain the high standard of efficiency attained by the Marion company in its first year, public support is being sought by the company's officers.

In a number of Ohio cities which have guard units, civic leaders, business men, city and county officials have rendered valuable help. In a number of instances men in these positions are serving as enlisted men and company officers.

Rigorous Schedule

At Camp Zaleski in Vinton county where the company is now finishing a week of field training, members of the company have been following a rigorous schedule. The days started at 5:15 a. m. and officially ended at 10 p. m. with a short sprinkling of K. P. duty, guard duty and night maneuvers between retreat and reveille.

Marion county residents interested in seeing the company in action are invited to visit the Armory during the Tuesday night drill programs.

German Plan To Seize Eire Revealed in Dial

By The Associated Press

DUBLIN, July 10—The story of a plan, presumably German, to invade Eire in 1940 was told to the Dail or parliament today by Minister of Justice Gerry Ballard in a scorching criticism of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

In 1940 when things were looking very bad," he said, "it became known that a parachutist had landed here. He was not captured himself, but in his paraphernalia we found plans which, as far as we could see, were plans for invasion of this country.

"It took up to 18 months to capture that man, and during that time, he was harbored by IRA people."

Holland said a second parachutist landed, and was captured almost immediately, but asserted: "He escaped and it took us three months to get him, and during all that time, he was in touch with the same group of people. I had no indication of the wish of these people to involve this country in war."

New Fighter-Bomber Developed from Mustang

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 10—A speedy new fighter-bomber developed from the North American P-51 Mustang has taken its place alongside lightning and Warhawk explosive carriers in the attacks upon Sicily, it was disclosed yesterday.

Officially it is called the A-36. The A-36 is "fundamentally a fighter," but is equipped with bomb racks and dive brakes, an authority said. It can be used both for dive-bombing and glide-bombing and was described as able to protect itself, whether on fighting, bombing or strafing missions.

(The Mustang, which resembles Britain's Spitfire, is a single-seat, low wing monoplane. Its three-bladed propeller is driven by a 1,150-horse power Allison engine.)

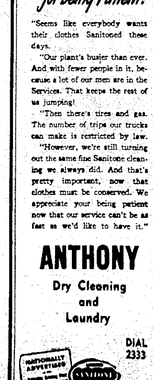
"THE MYSTERY SHIP"

There was a day when American airplanes charged at Japan in a bombing that will never be forgotten. No one knew how or when the planes that carried those bombs reached their taking-off place. Our President referred to their base as a mid-ocean "Shangri-La."

Now we are readying for more and greater bombings of Japan. And this time the Shangri-La will be an actuality: a real airplane carrier by that name which will carry destruction to the enemy.

It's in your power to build that mystery ship . . . with your small change. A dollar in War Stamps from you this month is your share—but the more the better! Every man . . . every woman . . . every child in the United States must consider this a personal responsibility: one so easily carried out!



"Seems like everybody wants their clothes Sanitoned these days.

"Our plant's busier than ever. And with fewer people in it, because a lot of our men are in the Services. That keeps the rest of us jumping!

"Then there's tires and gas. The number of trips our trucks can make is restricted by law.

"However, we're still turning out the same fine Sanitone cleaning we always did. And that's pretty important, now that clothes must be conserved. We appreciate your being patient now that our service can't be as fast as we'd like to have it."

MR. AND MRS. FRANK M. KNAPP of 297 Bradford street are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Elsie Jane, to Dr John Burton Mayes of New York, N. Y., which took place Sunday, July 4 in New York City. The double ring ceremony was read at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the Little Church Around the Corner, with Dr. Randolph Rae officiating. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Harry W. Mayes of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Sayville, L. I.

Mr. Knapp gave his daughter in marriage and her sisters, Miss Peggy Knapp and Frances M. Knapp were her attendants. Dr. Mayes served as best man for his son and the guests were seated by Dr. Lewis Denninger and Alfred T. Kennedy of Brooklyn.

For her wedding Miss Knapp chose a two-piece suit dress in white silk, with lace and embroidery trim at the neckline and on the sleeves, and a white veiled hat. A white orchid, which she later removed to pin on her going-away costume, centered her nosegay corsage of small white roses. For something old she followed a tradition of brides in the Knapp family and carried a Battenberg handkerchief made by her paternal grandmother, and her only jewelry was the bridegroom's gift, a diamond and amethyst studded gold circlet.

Miss Peggy Knapp, bridesmaid, and Frances, aged seven years, who was the junior bridesmaid, wore identical dresses in a lime green shade fashioned with square necklines and puffed sleeves. Accenting their costumes were patch pockets and lace and embroidery trim and they were white accessories. Their flowers were pink camellias, and they were the bride's gifts, gold friendship circles.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Knapp chose a two-piece costume of black sheer with which she wore a large black hat and black accessories. Her corsage was a purple throated white orchid. The bridegroom's mother was costumed in a dusty pink dress with which she wore white accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bridegroom gave his best man a two-picture folder and presented the ushers with sterling personal identification fobs.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at Drury Lane. Wreaths of greenery and stephanotis encircled the three-tiered wedding cake and the two-triple-branched candelabra holding the lighted tapers. Serving were Mrs. William Finzer and Miss Helen Mayes, sisters of the bridegroom.

When the couple left on a wedding trip in Connecticut the bride was wearing a navy and white two-piece print costume with navy accessories. They will live at 494 First street in Brooklyn.

The bride was graduated from Ward Belmont Junior college in Nashville, Tenn., in 1939 and received her bachelor of science degree in physical education at Ohio university, Athens. Prior to going east where she is with the personnel research department at the Sperry Gyroscope Co. in Long Island, she taught physical education in the schools at Nelsonville. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Dr. Mayes received his B. A. degree at Ohio university in 1938 and later was graduated from the school of medicine at Cornell university. He served his internship in Methodist hospital in Brooklyn and recently was commissioned a first lieutenant in the U. S. Army Medical Corps. He is affiliated with Beta Theta Pi and Nu Sigma medical fraternity.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs F. S. McCarty of Orange, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. H S. Martin of Montclair, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. William Gaither of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. William Finzer of Cleveland; George Kramer of Monmouth, N. J., and Marion.

Mr. and Mrs. Knapp and family returned yesterday from New York.

Cong. Smith Hits Subsidies

Marion Congressman Criticizes Use of Public Funds in Effort To Control Food Prices.

In one of his final talks before congress adjourned Thursday, Congressman F. C. Smith of Marion voiced opposition to the food subsidy program, criticizing the use of public funds in an attempt to roll back prices. The text of his remarks follows

"The idea that the cost of living can be reduced or held down by subsidizing the consuming public with taxpayers money is false and vicious. The scheme cannot reduce the cost of living one iota. On the contrary, it is bound to increase living costs and multiply our present troubles of controlling prices and rationing. Instead of lessening the dangers of inflation, it will greatly increase them. But a little common sense reasoning should convince anyone of the truth of this statement.

"Take the 5c rollback on butter. To outward appearances, of course, it is apt to look to many when they pay for a pound of butter over the counter that they have actually made a saving of 5c. The fact is, no actual saving has been made. What really happens here is not an actual reduction to the consumers in the price of butter, but merely the shifting of the payment from the grocer, processor and producer of butter to Uncle Sam, who in turn, hands it over to the grocer, processor and producer.

"The same principal applies, of course, to all other consumer goods that may become involved in the rollback program.

"The sole source of the subsidies used in this scheme is taxes. These taxes must be paid either by present taxpayers or future taxpayers. A part of the federal funds is raised by current taxes, while the other part is being raised by borrowing which must be paid back by future taxpayers.

"Who are the current taxpayers and who will be the future taxpayers? Practically everybody now pays federal taxes, wage earners, farmers, as well as all others. No group of people is more deceived by this scheme than are wage earners. The trouble with this rollback is that it never stops rolling until it gets back on their pay or income.

"It is true, shamefully true, that not all of the price rollback finally falls on current taxpayers. Some of it falls on future taxpayers. Who are some of the future taxpayers that will be called upon to pay for our present cost of living? Among them will be many millions of returning soldiers. So there will be a rollback of prices on our soldiers who are now bleeding and suffering to save our Nation! This is a spectacle, indeed!

"They will have to help pay the taxes for the interest and retirement of government bonds that are now sold to raise the money with which to pay the rollback subsidies. Here is something that should concern our consciences.

"Under the administration's price rollback subsidy scheme when you next sit down to your meal and as you ask the blessing and offer a prayer for the speedy and safe return of your soldier boy, or of another, give a little thought to the fact that a part of the cost of the food you are about to eat has been rolled on the one for whom you are praying."

CITY AIR RAID SIRENS TESTED

Called Satisfactory Except for One Area; Another Unit May Be Added.

Described by Marion county Civilian Defense Coordinator William R. Martin as excellent, the first test of the city's seven air raid sirens was held for the first time at 8 o'clock Friday night.

MACKENZIE

likely to clamber aboard the continent tomorrow.

Still, the conquest of powerfully held Sicily will in itself be a major triumph. This is a moment of exultation, though I think we shouldn't let this make us overlook that our joy is likely to be tempered with some tears. This job is going to be costly, you know.

General Eisenhower told a press conference in North Africa in June that the allies might be "riding for a bloody nose," but he thought the job could be done. Early reports today indicated the invasion forces were encountering heavy resistance.

Sicily had been surrounded by mine fields, submarines lurked all about it, and strong coastal batteries had been set up to meet the impending invasion. Last night heavy German and Italian reinforcements were rushed from the mainland to the island. It was no boy's job which the allied men tackled as they raced ashore from their barges and clambered over terrorizing barbed wire in the face of heavy fire.

All Are Prepared

Still, they are as fit and well prepared for their bloody task as any men could be. Many of them—perhaps all—are either commando trained or have undergone a similar fierce preparation over a long period. The Canadians, for instance, have been undergoing intensive training for invasion for three years.

One of the most important lessons which thus far have come to us from this offensive is that air power can render large areas of heavily fortified territory sufficiently impotent so that amphibious operations can be carried out. Such landing of troops and equipment from the sea is perhaps the most difficult of all military operations.

We have many of these bloody landings ahead of us before we beat the Boche. We have no foothold on the continent at all, excepting through the Russians in the east. The last World war was child's play as compared with this.

And so it's grand to find that British Prime Minister Churchill was right when he said the experiment of trying to knock the enemy out by bombing was worth while. We can see now that air power is going to open up the continent to us.

All this is said, of course, without forgetting that the battle of Sicily is still young as this is written. We have to win this engagement before we can go ahead with others.

INVASION "Big Ten"

Associated Press Features

THESE are the men of the U. S. Army entrusted with carrying the fight directly to the enemy. Theirs is the job to strike—and invade. The success of a mission depends primarily on all the arms shown. Behind them are more branches and services—intelligence, finance department, morale among them—but at the floodtide of conflict the "Big Ten" rule.

Scouting, fighting, bombing are the tasks of Army planes. They spot and soften enemy positions, protect landing operations.

The backbone of any man's army, the infantry seizes and holds objectives. The rifle is its mainstay — plus grenades, tanks.

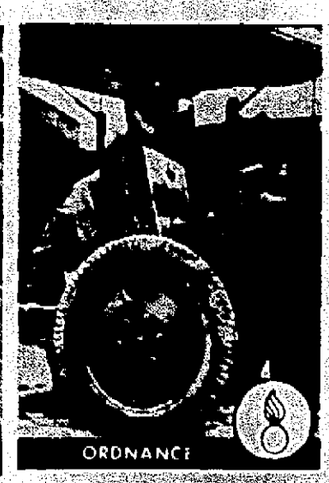
Tanks of all sizes and heavy mobile guns of the Armored Forces are used to break through, encircle enemy positions.

Motorized equipment hauls the big guns into position. Artillerymen are equipped with everything from pistols to 155-mm. cannon.

Flame-throwers, smoke screens and anti-gas precautions are the field of this highly-specialized corps of experts.

They install, maintain and operate field telephone systems and radio walkie-talkie outfits for fast communication at the front.

Soldiers as well as technicians, these men are up front, destroying obstacles, building roads and bridges, fighting while they work.



Supply and maintenance of weapons, ammunition is the Ordnance Department's job. Its machine shops and dumps follow the troops.

Prodigies of planning and transport are required to keep advancing troops supplied with food and clothing—even barter goods.

Rescue and care of wounded devolves on this department. It protects health of army, includes thousands of doctors, nurses, dentists.

INVASION CATCHES CAPITAL UNAWARE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 10—Allied invasion of Sicily caught the capital of the United States by surprise in the early morning hours today, shrouded so well in secrecy that the usual sources of such information knew nothing about it in advance.

The technique was as perfect as that employed when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower led amphibious operations as allied commander in the invasion of Africa.

Then, mum was the word until the lightning hit, and so it was last night.

Shortly before midnight, the war department was the scene of unusual activity for that hour. The men who "cover" the Army here sensed something behind the tension.

This buzz over only possibilities was confined to a small area. The White House was quiet, and this tranquility, instead of being ominous, tended to allay any fears that "something was up."

The feeling of impending events continued in spite of that, and in the face of assurance of the office of war information that nothing unusual was happening on the foreign cable circuits.

Then, the war department summoned the press and gave out a terse 50-word communique that Sicily had been stormed. The announcement culminated weeks of expectancy. The drive against Europe was on!

Pickets Block Miners from Pennsylvania Pits

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, July 10—While a federal investigation of coal mine work stoppages was under way, insurgent strikers blocked entrances today at the big Gates mines of the H. C. Frick Coke Co. near Brownsville and prevented some 300 diggers from going back to work.

It was at this mine that workers burst through picket lines yesterday but today a larger force, estimated between 140 and 150 pickets, was on the scene.

Pickets, who previously had remained off the mine company's property, entered the property this morning and stood about 50 feet from the Gates tipple while two united mine workers' leaders pleaded with them to allow the miners to work.

"The invasion of Europe has started," Harry Wells, union local secretary, and William Fenton, financial secretary, shouted. "Please let these men go through."

One miner shouted to the pickets:

"I've got a boy over there and I want to go to work to help him."

Marion Man Fined For Receiving Stolen Goods

Russell Messenger, 28, of 596 Bertram avenue was fined $100 and costs in municipal court yesterday after his arrest by city police Thursday night on a charge of receiving goods stolen by two Marion boys, 12 and 14, from the Dollar restaurant Monday night. The younger boy was released on probation in the custody of his mother while the older boy was put in charge of his father by Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast this morning.

Messenger pleaded guilty to the charges. He said in court that he had no plans for the theft before it had taken place but that he knew the goods were stolen at the time he bought them from the boys.

The merchandise found in Messenger's possession, police said, included six bottles of wine and 10 bottles of beer, the total value of which was estimated by police at about $20.

Sicily Target of United Nations Invasion

forces are decisively counter-attacking."

(A German dispatch implied that the invasion was mounted from Malta and Pantelleria, saying the heaviest of the allied concentrations between Gibraltar and Cyprus had been observed at those islands in the Sicilian straits.)

Battle of Europe Starts

The long-heralded battle of Europe was under way.

Naval bombardments covered the snub-nosed, shallow-draft landing vessels as they slipped from convoys a mile or more offshore and headed for the coast.

Through wire and hot machine-gun fire the allied forces cut out their bridgeheads and then, with hardly a moment's pause, began battering their way toward the interior of the island.

Official details of the first phase of the invasion were expected to be issued later.

Liberators of the U. S. Ninth air force, striking from Middle East bases by daylight yesterday, smashed the general headquarters and nerve center of axis Sicilian defense forces at Taormina, a Cairo communique announced.

Taormina lies on the Messina strait, which narrows northward to separate Italy and Sicily by only two miles. The target area was declared "reduced to rubble and left in smoke and flame."

Hundreds of tons of explosives were dumped upon axis strongholds in this attack and other final pre-invasion missions. The raiders said they believed many grounded aircraft were destroyed. Twenty axis planes were shot down by Middle East and North African airmen. Eleven of the raiders failed to return.

Fighting Still Progressing

Tersely, the German high command said the allies "immediately encountered strong defenses on the ground and in the air. Fighting is still progressing."

A Nazi propaganda broadcast asserted allied parachutists were "encircled and rendered harmless" and declared axis coastal batteries and bombers sank a number of landing craft filled with troops and supplies.

"The invasion forces were immediately engaged in heavy fighting which proved extraordinarily expensive for them," the Berlin radio said.

Dispatches from General Eisenhower's headquarters said allied troops, slipping ashore in snub-nosed, shallow-draft boats from convoys a mile or more off the coast, cut through wire barriers and hot machine-gun defenses and then, with hardly a moment's pause, began battering their way inland.

Ten major air bases of Sicily are among the military prizes immediately at stake in the allied invasion.

As many as 300 enemy aircraft once rose from these fields in a single day to dispute the allied challenge for air domination, but continued raids trimmed that number considerably.

The axis in the past has boasted of mobile reserves kept at central points to be hurled into any threatened breach in Hitler's "fortress of Europe." (A Reuters dispatch from North Africa said some axis reinforcements were moved across Messina strait last night.)

Despite the round-the-clock air offensive's effect on axis morale and severe damage to Sicilian communications, military quarters said German and Italian ground forces were believed to have suffered only a minor loss of their original fighting efficiency.

Men File from Barges

As the alert fighting men piled from barges and other landing craft, booming guns of naval units offshore bombarded enemy defenses in a thunderous accompaniment and swarms of aircraft kept up the attack they had begun even before the landings started.

American, British and Canadian troops made up the landing forces.

The news of the bold stroke was first told in this terse announcement:

"Anglo - American - Canadian forces, under command of General Eisenhower, began landing operations in Sicily early this morning (July 10, North African time). Landings were preceded by an air attack. Naval forces escorted the assault forces and bombarded the coast defenses during the assault."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the American commander-in-chief of this first major land blow to crush enemy Europe, informed the peoples of the occupied and enemy countries of the attack in a statement read from the Algiers radio.

The announcer followed up the statement with these dramatic words:

"The battle of Africa is over; the battle of Europe has begun."

There was no immediate official report of the progress of the fighting or where it centered.

(A Reuters correspondent, however, cabled from North Africa to London that "the first line of allied troops are this morning locked in combat with the enemy after clambering over mines and barbed wire fences to attack pill-boxes and machinegun nests.")

Weather Is Good

The lightning-quick landings were begun in good weather in full moonlight.

The troop ships and their escorting naval vessels defied minefields and strongly-placed enemy shore guns to reach the objective.

Sicily, only 260 airline miles from Rome, is believed here to be the most heavily defended part of Italy.

Although it may prove a tough nut to crack, General Eisenhower had powerful land, air and sea forces—steadily increased since the American-British landings in French Africa last year—to sustain his offensive.

Some of the newest weapons in the allied arsenal are believed receiving their first battle tryout.

Allied air power, which forced Italian Pantelleria into submission just a month ago tomorrow, paved the way for the landings by "saturation bombing" of Sicilian targets. Yesterday was the sixth consecutive day of almost constant around-the-clock air attacks, officially described as almost comparable to the mighty air blows against Pantelleria, one of the greatest air offensives in history up to that time.

Italians "Scorch Earth"

The Italians, expecting the invasion for weeks, already had inaugurated a scorched earth program in Sicily by destroying harbor installations at Trapani, long the main base for the Italian fleet and nearest important Sicilian port to Africa.

(A broadcast by the Algiers radio to North America, recorded by U. S. government monitors, said landings had been carried out on the rock-studded western tip of Sicily near that port.)

The triangular-shaped island offered few accessible beaches to the invaders except along the 180-mile southwest side, where the shore spreads back some distance before the first hills appear. High cliffs protect most of the northern and eastern shores.

General Eisenhower's personal message announcing the start of the offensive was first read in French by allied radio announcers and advised the people of France that this was "the first stage in the liberation of the European continent." It urged them to remain calm and avoid exposing themselves to Nazi reprisals.

The general indirectly promised the French they eventually would get their chance to help strike back at their Nazi conquerors.

"When the hour of action strikes we will let you know," the commander-in-chief declared.

Read in Three Languages

The statement, later was read in Italian, German and English. (Radio Algiers said in a broadcast heard in London by The Associated Press that it would keep repeating the announcement all day and all night. To the Italian version, it added this postscript: "The words of Roosevelt and Churchill have now become a reality. Italy, dragged in this German war by Mussolini, has become a battlefield. The German rearguard action will now be fought on Italian soil.")

General Eisenhower's message to the French said:

"The United Nations armed forces have today launched an offensive against Sicily.

"It is the first stage in the liberation of the European continent. I call on the French people to remain calm and not allow themselves to be deceived by false rumors which the enemy might circulate.

"The allied radio will keep you informed on military developments. I count on your sangfroid and on your sense of discipline. Do not be rash for the enemy is watching.

"Keep on listening to the allied radio and never heed rumors. Verify carefully news you receive. By remaining calm and by not exposing yourselves to reprisals through premature action you will be helping us effectively."

Be Calm Is Appeal

"When the hour of action strikes we will let you know. Until then help us by following our instructions. That is to say, be calm, keep calm, conserve your strength. We repeat: when the hour of action strikes we'll let you know."

The communique announcing the start of the landings gave the first information that Canadian troops had been moved into General Eisenhower's area of command. For three years large contingents have been guarding Britain.

It long has been expected they would spearhead any invasion as they did the attack on Dieppe.

(In Ottawa, Prime Minister MacKenzie King declared "all Canada will be justifiably proud to know that units of the Canadian army are a part of the allied force engaged in this attack.")

In addition to their North African bases, the allied attacking forces had two major strongholds in the Mediterranean from which to spring against Sicily—captured Pantelleria, some 60 miles southwest on the direct route acros sthe 90-mile-wide Sicilian strait from Tunisia, and the impregnable British naval stronghold of Malta, even closer due south of the eastern end of the island.

Assisting each block chairman will be from three to five workers who will be designated "treasury representatives." By the time the organization is complete between 100 and 150 treasury representatives will have been appointed. About 100 were named last night but their names will not be made public until certifications have been received by local war bond officials from the treasury department offices in Washington, D. C.

The new organization's activities will center in the city's business districts. At least for the present no residential district staff will be named.

NEWSMEN INFORMED OF ATTACK IN JUNE

By The Associated Press

AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 10—This was "D" day.

And now that it's come more than 100 American and British correspondents in North Africa have a sensation of a heavy weight being lifted from their shoulders and hobbles taken off their tongues.

You can speak openly now about the landing on Sicily.

For months whenever the subject was mentioned at all—which was practically never — correspondents called it "that thing" or "the magoo" or, simply, "it."

In the middle of June Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower called a press conference at his headquarters.

These conferences are held fairly regularly. You get information straight from the horse's mouth there. Some of it you can use and most of it you can't. But just knowing helps to interpret events as they arise.

The allied commander-in-chief was speaking generally of the situation as developing.

Suddenly, without the slightest warning, he said overseas operations would be undertaken within the month. The room seemed to freeze.

It became as still as a picture and there was a sensation of glassy unreality. Nothing moved except the commander-in-chief's icy blue eyes which went slowly from face to face.

He said that the attack would be aimed at Sicily.

And if there was surprise before it was sheer numbing shock now.

Eisenhower said the allies might be riding for a bloody nose, but he thought the job could be done.

Before the conference ended he warned listeners not to talk. It was more than a warning.

Something in his voice struck deep. It was cold and hard.

After the conference one correspondent murmured: "I almost wish he hadn't told us. I have never been so conscious of a responsibility."

MUNDA

sumably is the prelude to a land assault of American troops already on New Georgia both above and three miles east of Munda where they are preparing the jaws of a pincers.

The more than 70 tons of bombs concentrated on bivouacs and supply dumps in the Munda defense area yesterday were said by a spokesman for General MacArthur to constitute the heaviest air blow yet to fall on that much-bombed air base.

Wave on wave of the bombers swept over jungle positions on the enemy before Munda, exploding all types of bombs without encountering opposition from a single Japanese plane. Wildcat fighters were around just in case. The Japanese fired anti-aircraft batteries but positions of some of these were silenced both by bombers and Rendova's artillerymen.

The Japanese, who have expended nearly 200 planes trying to check the Solomons offensive, sent 45 Zeros over Rendova yesterday but they were dispersed by our fighter planes. Four Zeros were shot down. One American fighter was reported missing.

In the gathering fight on northeast New Guinea for the Japanese air base of Salamaua, Mitchell bombers yesterday attacked enemy positions only five miles below there on Bobdubi ridge and also struck above Salamaua.

Russian People Cheered by News of Invasion

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, July 10—The Russian people joyously welcomed news of the allied landing on Sicily today.

Even before the newspapers had time to comment editorially, the people entered into excited discussions, calling the new offensive "a fine gift" for the Red army, now striving to block the summer offensive of the Nazis.

"It is not the second front, of course," they were saying. "But it is another important blow to the axis."

FEED DEMANDS TO BRING CHANGES

Indicates Revised Feeding Programs Necessary.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 10—The unprecedented demand for feed grains, which is expected to expand as the year progresses, today impelled the bureau of agricultural economics to list four probable effects upon grains and livestock.

The bureau said the following changes in the 1943-44 feed situation were in prospect:

1. An increase in the use of supplementary forages and winter pastures.

2. Feeding of livestock, especially hogs, to lighter weights.

3. A reduction of supplies of corn bell corn for shipment to deficit areas.

4. A reduction of the carry-over of 1943-44 feed grains to a minimum.

"Although the 1942-43 supply of feed grains and concentrates was the largest on record," the bureau said "livestock production has also been at a record level during the past year and has caused an unprecedented disappearance of all kinds of feed."

Shortages of feed grains offered for sale in commercial markets was one factor in causing a broad upturn in grain futures duging the early part of last week.

Marion Co. Farm Labor Rate Schedules Set Up

New Farm Wage Board Recommends Schedule of Prices, Voluntary Compliance Expected.

General rates for various forms of custom farm work and a scale of wages for different types of farm labor were established by the Marion county farm wage board in its initial hearing last night at the Y. M. C. A. About 30 farmers representing practically every type of land in the county were present.

The wage board was appointed earlier this week by Harry Hoch, chairman of the county farm labor committee, after a notice was received from the state office of the agricultural extension service requesting the formation of the four-man board. They were Ernest Fogle of Meeker, Gail Smith of Waldo, Curtis Irey of Caledonia, and E. A. Williams of Grand Prairie township. Arthur Smith, county agricultural extension agent acted as coordinator.

Summary of Decisions

The following decisions, decided upon by the board after the consensus of the farmers present had been obtained, were made:

1. To place an average rate of 12 cents per bale for small baling custom work.

2. To place an average rate of from 18 to 20 cents per bale for large baling custom work.

3. To place the average rate of wheat combining at from $3 to $3.50 per acre for custom work.

4. To fix the average rate of bean harvesting at from $3.50 to $4 per acre for custom work.

5. To place the average rate of corn picking at $4 for custom farming.

6. To place a minimum of $50 monthly, plus room and board for single farm hands.

7. To establish a maximum of $75 per month plus room and board for single farm hands.

8. To fix the pay for married farm hands at from $75 to $85 per month plus a house, garden, meat and milk.

9. To establish the average wage for schoolboy labor (mostly boys under 16) at $30 per month.

Enforcement Doubtful

Whether the wage board will have any power to enforce these decisions is problematic as the notification of the formation of the board from the state office did not specify the actual enforcement power of the board. However, Mr. Smith believes a great majority of farmers will abide by the decisions handed down by the board as they stand for their own views and feelings about rates and wages.

Since many of the farmers present were neighborhood leaders and undoubtedly consulted farmers from their sections as to their opinions on the wage status, decisions voicing the stands of the Marion county farmers as a whole were made at the hearing.

Members of the board are of the unanimous belief that they will not have the power to employ coercion on county farmers in order to carry out decisions as to custom rates. Each farmer will probably decide for himself whether to follow the rates established by the board.

The same probably will hold true for the wages scale for farm labor. Most of the farmers who have been fortunate enough to secure labor despite the critical manpower shortage have been paying good wages that are comparable with the wages set at the hearing. Any future farm workers probably will receive wages not below the minimum established by the board but sometimes above the maximum, members of the board said.

Local Request for Rates

In addition, many farmers have been appealing to the local agricultural office to fix a standard farm wage scale and to especially establish, wherever possible, uniform custom rates.

Much baling of hay is being done at the present time by many county farmers. Therefore, they were especially anxious to have the board set up a custom rate graduation for baling work. Much custom baling is done in this county since only a small percentage of the farmers have baling equipment. Mr. Smith estimates that fewer than 100 of the 1,500 county farmers have balers.

There was not a vote against setting the custom rate for baling on small machines at 12 cents per bale. However, some farmers were somewhat undecided as to the uniform wage for large baling. Therefore, the rate drawn up was not precisely uniform, the general opinion being to set a varying rate of from 18 to 20 cents per bale.

Small balers measure about 14 by 17 inches while the large balers have dimensions of 17 by 22 inches. The small ones have a capacity of about 70 pounds and the large machines, about 100 pounds.

Baling of wheat will get under way immediately after the crop is combined. Wheat combining, according to Mr. Smith, will be at its greatest volume next week.

Allow Leeway

The farmers were at first unanimously decided to set the rate for wheat combining at $3. However, further discussion prompted some leeway in the rate. Prevailing rate was set up to vary from $3 to $3.50. Many farmers said that they would demand the higher price if the wheat was not clean.

Bean harvesting will start in September this year and will probably continue through November. However, last year, harvesting of beans was just being completed in the county in January. Oats combining will be at its peak in about two weeks, according to Mr. Smith. Rate for the oats will correspond almost exactly with wheat custom combining.

For all these combining tasks, only about 400 combines are available in the county, records of the extension office show. This means that only about one-fourth of Marion county's farmers will have the necessary equipment with which to do harvesting.

The No. 1 official duty of the board, according to members, is to determine wage rates for intra-state labor. No foreign or inter-state wage problem will arise involving foreign or inter-state labor, Mr. Smith explains, since farmers in this county do not desire such workers for the type of farming done here.

Not one farmer voted against placing the rate for a single farm laborer at $73 maximum. Only experienced farm workers will receive this wage, however, members decided. Most farm hands will receive above the established minimum of $50 since that figure applies only to inexperienced farm workers.

Tenant Farmer Plan

Tenant farmers who have families will be paid from $75 to $85 per month, on the average, in addition to having free access to the farm garden and their own meat and milk. These married farmers will also be given a house of their own on the farm in return for their services.

Practically no schoolboy under 16 years of age will be paid more than $30 a month, the board decided, unless he is one of extraordinary maturity and farming ability. On the other hand, few boys will be paid under that amount. Value of youthful workers, farmers added, is invaluable, since they have assumed positions of lesser magnitude and importance on the farm, thereby releasing older workers for heavy and important farming tasks.

Mr. Smith has not scheduled any hearings of the board in the near future. However, he said, if he receives additional word from the state agricultural office a special hearing to clear up any further problems will be held.

TO SALVAGE FEED AT ALCOHOL PLANTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 10—The war food administration is about to embark upon a $10,000,000 program to recover high protein livestock feed from waste residue at grain alcohol producing plants, the senate agriculture subcommittee investigating the alcohol program disclosed today.

Saying there was need for tapping additional sources of animal feed in view of the current shortage of grains, the WFA said in a report published in the subcommittee's official record that 1,400,000 tons of protein feed were recoverable from the contemplated 440,000,000 gallons a year production of alcohol from grains.

The WFA proposes, the report said, to recover all but 410,000 tons, explaining that part of it is being fed to cattle without drying at the site of production, and that part of it can not be reclaimed economically or effectively.

U. S. Heavy Bombers Over France Today

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 10 — Strong formations of U. S. heavy bombers and flights of RAF light bombers attacked German fighter bases in France today.

Flying Fortresses bombed airfields at Caen and Abbeville and a joint announcement by the U. S. Army's European theater headquarters and the British air ministry said bomb bursts were observed on both targets.

Another formation of Fortresses, finding its target in France obscured by heavy clouds, refrained from bombing the objective but experienced persistent fighter opposition.

The daylight foray followed a "very heavy attack" on the central Ruhr last night by four-engined bombers of the RAF.

Detroit Threatens To Overhaul Yanks

Tigers Win 11 of Last 13 Starts, Meet A's Over Week-end.

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers, in a drive reminiscent of their surge to the 1940 pennant, may oust the New York Yankees from first place in the American league this week-end.

Victorious in 11 of their last 13 starts, the aroused Bengals have zoomed upwards from the second division into second place only two games behind the pace-setting Yanks. With the New Yorkers and the third place Chicago White Sox listed to slug it out in successive doubleheaders today and tomorrow, the Tigers could take over the lead by sweeping the three-game series with the last place Philadelphia Athletics even if the Yanks win one.

The Tigers already have beaten the A's twice, their latest conquest over Connie Mack's hirelings being a 4 to 0 shutout last night. Hal White twirled a four-hitter. Rookie Dick Wakefield became the first major leaguer to reach the 100-hit mark with a second inning single.

In the National league Mort Cooper of the first place St. Louis Cardinals set down the Boston Braves with three singles for a 7-0 shutout.

Brooklyn temporarily staved off Pittsburgh's challenge for second place by coming from behind twice to beat the Pirates, 8 to 7, in a wild and wooly 10-inning game.

A squeeze play brought Washington a 1 to 0 10-inning triumph over Cleveland after Dutch Leonard and Jim Bagby hooked up in a scoreless pitching duel for 12 innings. Bob Johnson walked to start the 13th, raced to third on Alex Kampouris' single, and scored on Gerald Priddy's hunt along the first base line.

REDS FATTEN THEIR BATTING AVERAGES

Pound Out 16 Hits To Beat Phils 11 to 4.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, July 10—This "mutually love business," for which baseball is known throughout the world, held a concrete meaning for the Cincinnati Reds today.

All of the Reds, with the exception of winning Pitcher Clyde Shoun, fattened their batting averages on the offerings of three Phillies pitchers whom they pounded for 16 hits in blasting out a 11 to 4 triumph last night.

The Reds got enough runs to win the game in the sixth inning when a combination of singles by Max Marshall, Steve Mesner, Eddie Miller, Bert Haas and Gee Walker with a base on balls and a wild pitch by Newton Kimball, the Phillies starting pitcher, netted four runs.

The Phillies worked hard on Ed Heusser, who started for Cincinnati, getting 8 of their 13 safeties off him in the third inning.

Lloyd Dietz, who quelled the Red uprising in the sixth, and Charlie Fuchs, who later replaced him, let in four Red tallies in the remaining three innings.

Manager Bill McKechnie was not certain whether he would start the slipping Bucky Walters or Elmer Riddle in today's contest Dick Conger, rookie right-hander purchased earlier in the week from Toronto, was Phil Manager Bucky Harris' choice.

Manager Joe Cronin again socked a homer as a pinchhitter, but his effort went for naught when Mike Chartak connected for a ninth-inning homer to give the St. Louis Browns a 5 to 4 win over the Boston Red Sox.

Ernie Lombardi, Giants' catcher, hit four singles and a homer in five times at bat. All his effort accomplished, however, was to force the Chicago Cubs to go 12 innings before winning, 5 to 3, on Bill Nicholson's triple.

Cincinnati whacked out six runs in a big sixth inning to come from behind and beat the Phillies, 11 to 4.

The Yankees and White Sox were idle.

2 LEAGUE LEADERS TO MEET TUESDAY

Huber and Cooler Teams To Play at Garfield.

In what may prove to be one of the most closely contested games of the 1943 Marion softball season, Universal-Cooler will make a powerful bid for a share of first place in the Industrial league in a tilt with Huber at Garfield park Tuesday night.

The league-leading threshers are the sole team in the Industrial loop to sport an undefeated record. They have won four straight games. In addition, they have knocked off two Commercial league foes.

Universal is not far behind Huber in second spot with three wins and one defeat in the Industrial circuit. The team has split even in two contests against Commercial league opposition.

To make Tuesday's game a perfect setup, Universal's lone loop defeat was administered by none other than Huber in a first round game on June 8 at the same Garfield park. That game was a close affair, the final count reading 6 to 5.

If the Coolers hand the Threshers a licking, they will be in a dead-lock for first place in the Industrial league. If Huber wins the game, that team will go into a two game lead, which will be probably too hard for Universal to overtake by the end of the loop season on Aug. 10.

Tentative starting flinger for Huber is Harold Millisor, the league's top pitcher with six wins and no losses. On the mound for Universal will be Bill Everly, who has copped four games and lost two. These two stellar chuckers faced each other the first time their two squads met.

Other game on Tuesday night will match Commercial Steel and Coca-Cola in an inter-Industrial and Commercial loop game which will not go down in the books of either league. This game will be played at Lincoln park. First round game between these two teams was also a tight battle, the final score being Coke 9 Commercial 8.

Starting time for both of these game will be 6:30 p. m.

Martin Tightens Grip on AA Hitting Lead

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 10 — Hershel Martin's strangle hold on the American association hitting leadership became more pronounced last week when his closest challenger, Al Zarilla of Toledo, was called up by the St. Louis Browns.

The Milwaukee outfielder posted a .371 mark in games computed through Wednesday — and although this was 11 points under his figure a week ago, it was far superior to the remainder of the batters in the "leading ten" division. His closest rival now was a teammate, Grey Clarke, with .345.

Tony York of Milwaukee led in number of hits — 79; Stew Hofferth of Indianapolis was tops in doubles, 18, and Fred Vaughn and Ed Morgan, also of Indianapolis, were setting the pace in triples, each with seven.

Bill Norman of Milwaukee retained his lead in home runs with 11, and his teammate, Ted Norbert, led in runs batted in with 46.

Milwaukee was far to the front in team batting with its .289 mark, followed by Toledo's .266 and Indianapolis' .264.

Indianapolis' Jim Trexler boasted the best pitching with 11 wins against one defeat.

TRIBES' ADMIRATION FOR BIG STADIUM TAKES ANOTHER FALL

Nats Squeeze Out 1 to 0 Victory in 13 Innings; Jim Bagby Loses.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 10—Admiration for this city's lakefront stadium lessened today among Cleveland's Indians — especially Jim Bagby—after the Washington Nationals squeezed out a 13-inning victory over the Tribe at the Municipal arena.

The Redskins have scored just three runs in their last four appearances at the stadium and in last night's 1 to 0 heartbreaker not one Indian reached third base.

The setback was doubly bitter to Bagby because not only did the right hander hold the Nats scoreless for 13 innings but in his last three stadium games he allowed only six runs—three in extra innings—and failed to win any of them. In addition, his teammates have provided him with only two runs in the past 33 innings he's pitched.

The Nationals had runners on base five times during the overtime contest but resorted to a squeeze play in the 13th to force across their run. Bagby's walk to Bob Johnson started it. Alex Kampouris singled to right and Johnson raced to third. With one out, Jake Early popped up to the infield. Gerald Priddy then bunted down the first base line. Bagby shot the ball to Catcher Buddy Rosar but Johnson beat the throw. The play was recorded as a sacrifice and fielder's choice.

The Indians meet the Senators again today at the stadium in an afternoon game with Vernon Kennedy slated to oppose Washington's Early Wynn on the mound.

Cruiser Helena Sank Four Ships Before Sinking

By J. NORMAN LODGE
AP War Correspondent

AT AN ADVANCED INVASION BASE, SOUTH PACIFIC, July 6 (Delayed)—At least two Japanese cruisers and two destroyers were sunk by the Cruiser Helena before it went down with colors flying in the decisive American naval victory in Kula gulf early today.

The Helena was the only American ship lost when a small number of United States warships topped the Japanese navy's bid to reinforce Kolombangara and Munda, central Solomon objectives of the powerful offensive against the enemy in the South Pacific.

The naval battle, which resulted in the loss of at least nine Japanese cruisers and destroyers, came after the Japanese, thinking they were omnipotent and undetected, steamed boldly into Kula gulf, an eight-mile channel between New Georgia island and its northern neighbor Kolombangara.

Our naval force, under the orders of the admiral commanding the action, were ready and waiting for a fight. As the Nips steamed boldly down the channel our light cruiser task force opened fire.

The cruiser Helena, chafing for a fight loosed its six inch guns upon two of Hirohito's best cruisers. Both were sunk. Then she sank at least two destroyers before going down herself. Alan Jackson of Oakland, Calif., International News Photo photographer, who was aboard the Helena, corroborates the fact that she had hit her third target when her bow was blown off.

In the meantime other cruisers of our task force were lobbing over shells which sent other Japanese cruisers and destroyers to the bottom while our destroyer escort took time to engage enemy vessels when not picking up survivors.

The participation of the destroyers in this engagement was so great that the admiral recommended immediate promotion to the next higher rank and navy crosses for both commanders.

Jackson said the majority of the Helena's crew of 1,200, except those in the engine rooms, went over the side of the ship into the ocean and were picked up by destroyers.

(In dispatches to Australia, Osmar White, Australian correspondent estimated the number of survivors at 600. The number in the crew as reported by Jackson was much larger than the 700 to 600 men usually carried.)

Don Cameron, trainer of Count Fleet, was offered the most-talked-about colt of the season for nothing when it was just a youngster. Cameron didn't think it was worth the feed bills!

DEER HUNTING IN OHIO IS POSSIBILITY

By The Associated Press

PUT-IN-BAY, O., July 10—A committee studying the advisability of deer hunting in Ohio told the state conservation and natural resources commission "everything points to such a season," but requested additional time to draft a program.

The report was made during the commission's July meeting here, at which tentative schedules for hunting and trapping seasons in the state were adopted with only minor revisions.

Southern Ohio sportsmen and farmers asked the commission last month to permit a short deer hunting season next fall on the ground that the animals had become so numerous as to cause crop damage in that area.

The deer population of southern Ohio counties has been estimated unofficially at 1,200.

Only forest areas and sparsely populated sections were expected to be opened to hunting, including southern timber regions.

SENATOR PRESENTS 2 G.O.P. PROSPECTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 10—Senator Reed (R-Kan) thinks the Republicans ought to give the presidential nod either to Senator Taft (R-Ohio) or Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich).

"I think," he said during debate on the food subsidy program; "the Republican party is wasting a great deal of time trying to find a candidate, looking at Willkie, Governor Dewey (of New York) and Governor Bricker (of Ohio) when there are two men in the senate, either of whom would make a better candidate than any other of the men I have named. The two men to whom I refer are so nearly balanced in my esteem that on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays I think the senator from Michigan would be the best candidate of the Republican party for president, and on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays I lean toward the senator from Ohio."

Coaching Club Stake North Randall Feature

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 10—The $7,657 Coaching Club stake for three-year-old trotting fillies headlines the grand circuit program at North Randall track today. Deciding heats of yesterday's bill will also be run off.

Before weather postponed yesterday's races, His Excellency, champion aged trotter of 1942, shaded Big Shot in the first heat of the $2,755 matron stake. The son of Volomite registered the fastest trotting mile this year with his 2:03¼.

After long-shot Cannon Ball led over most of the last half, driver Tommy Berry found room on the rail for His Excellency, owned by William H. Strang Jr. of Brooklyn, N. Y., and brought him in ahead by a quarter of a length.

EDDIE "ROCHESTER" ANDERSON doesn't know which way to [illegible] scene, taken from the picture "Cabin In the Sky," [illegible] Sunday at the Palace theater. He is torn between [illegible] wife, Ethel Walters, and seductive wiles of Lena Horne.

"Cabin in the Sky" To Be Palace Feature 4 Days

Ethel Waters, "Rochester" and Lena Horne in Lead Roles of Musical Drama.

"Cabin in the Sky" starring Ethel Waters and Eddie "Rochester" Anderson will start Sunday at the Palace theater and continue through Wednesday.

This musical drama combines comedy with songs as Ethel Waters battles valiantly for the soul of Eddie Anderson.

Based on the Broadway musical fantasy, the film deals with the struggle between the forces of good and evil for the soul of little Joe, played by Eddie Anderson. Lucifer Jr. is played by Rex Ingram, who enlists the aid of the beautiful temptress Lena Horne to achieve his end. The forces of good represented by Kenneth Spencer, noted concert singer, aligns themselves with Petunia, Little Joe's faithful and loving wife, depicted by Ethel Waters.

Bright musical moments are provided by the swing numbers of Duke Ellington and his band and the impressive harmonies of the Hall Johnson choir.

"Tennessee Johnson" starring Van Heflin, Lionel Barrymore and Ruth Hussey and "Taxi, Mister" starring William Bendix and Grace Bradley will be shown Thursday through Saturday.

The first show of this double feature is of the period following the close of the war between the North and the South and tells a story based on the life of Andrew Johnson, the illiterate runaway tailor's apprentice, who became President following Lincoln's death, in one of the most turbulent political periods in our history.

The stars make the three historical characters, Johnson as the struggling politician who became President; Miss Hussey as his wife, and Barrymore as his political enemy.

"Taxi, Mister" is the third in the Brooklyn series and it is a story in a setting of 15 years ago that relates the circumstances of the meeting and courtship of Tim and Sadie, played by William Bendix and Grace Bradley.

An historic battle of the diamond is fought on the sand-lot at the Sawtelle Military Reservation and contrary to all screen games, the battery of Bandix and Joe Sawyer as pitcher and catcher respectively, doesn't end up with a glorious victory. The game ends up as a free for all and is broken up by the Brooklyn police force.

Continued aeronautical research and constant checks in battle areas have resulted in some 400 improvements in Flying Fortresses.

Ohio Shows Spy Picture

George Sanders and Anna Sten Starred in Drama of Sabotage.

Now playing at the Ohio theater and continuing through Monday is "They Came To Blow Up America" starring George Sanders and Anna Sten.

Snatched from the newspaper headlines is this revealing drama of the ruthlessly cunning plan of the Nazis to sabotage American war production, and the heroic never-ending struggle of the government agents to hunt down and destroy the spies.

George Sanders stars in the film with an outstanding cast headed by Anna Sten. Sanders plays the part of a government agent who, disguised as a renegade American, enters a German school for saboteurs. Sanders is almost discovered when he falls in love with a German girl, a member of the underground-movement.

How he manages to overcome these and other difficulties accounts for the thrills of the picture.

"In This Our Life" starring Bette Davis, Olivia DeHavilland and George Brent will start Tuesday and continue through Thursday.

"Action in the North Atlantic" starring Humphrey Bogart and Julie Bishop will start Friday and continue through Thursday.

The Merchant Marine furnishes the theme of this picture as it tells the story of a group of men who ship out on a tanker laden with a cargo of high-octane gasoline.

Julie Bishop is the attractive actress that Bogart marries and leaves behind when he ships out on a convoy bound for Murmansk.

Fire Destroys Tent at Camp Millard

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, July 10—The first fire at Camp Millard since the camp was established here more than a year ago, destroyed one of the tent units in the 758th battalion area shortly after midnight Thursday. Contents of the tent were saved by occupants.

IN THE SCENE above taken from the picture, "They Came to Blow Up America," now playing at the Ohio theater, Anna Sten denounces George Sanders as an imposter to the Nazi Gestapo.

War Drama at Marion

'Immortal Sergeant' Features Fonda, Mitchell and Maureen O'Hara.

"Immortal Sergeant" starring Henry Fonda, Maureen O'Hara and Thomas Mitchell and "Calaboose" with Jimmy Rogers and Noah Beery Jr. will start at a midnight show Saturday and continue through Monday at the Marion theater.

From the far-flung battle field of North Africa comes this story of an indomitable band of fighters who conquer the enemy and the elements. Their leader is the sergeant of the title, but it is the inner battle of the corporal, Henry Fonda, which gives the film its key. The corporal "finds" himself amid the inferno of battle and emerges as an inspired leader when the death of the sergeant forces him to assume leadership of the patrol. Miss O'Hara is the girl to whom Fonda's thoughts return time and again.

"Calaboose" in which Jimmy Rogers and Noah Beery Jr. star, is the story of two friendly but troublesome cowboys who drift into town only to become involved with the sheriff's niece played by Mary Brian.

"Time To Kill" starring Lloyd Nolan and Heather Angel and "Somewhere in France" starring Robert Morley will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday. The first picture is a mystery featuring the private detective Michael Shayne played by Lloyd Nolan. It traces the theft of a rare and valuable coin and the murders which follow.

"Hi 'Ya Chum" with the Ritz Brothers and Jane Frazee and "Border Patrol" starring William Boyd will start Thursday and continue through Saturday.

"Hi 'Ya Chum" is the story of a mirthful fight between a law-abiding restaurant and a crooked gambling establishment in a Western boom town.

Action, excitement and gunplay are all found in the film "Border Patrol" which stars William Boyd as Hopalong Cassidy in another in the series of western adventures.

CORN-HOG PRICE RATIO ADVANCES

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 10. — Another long standing axiom of the livestock market that an 11 to 1 corn-hog feeding ratio was profitable for the producer went by the boards today and the figure was raised to 13 to 1 because of the tight feed situation.

The corn-hog ratio is a formula under which the cost of a given number of bushels of No. 3 yellow corn is equivalent to the price a farmer receives for 100 pounds live weight of hogs. The ratio was boosted to 13 to 1 because of the scarcity of corn and consequent operations of illegal markets and also because of the sharp increase in the costs of supplemental feed, the most important of which is animal protein.

In normal times when the ratio was figured at 11 to 1 the cost of supplemental feeds was inconsequential, but since the tight feed situation developed costs of proteins also have skyrocketed. Some authorities figured that at prevailing prices of corn supplements and live hogs, actual losses were suffered by many farmers who are raising pigs.

The official figures for the week ended July 3 placed the ratio at 12.6 to 1, the least favorable since the week ended June 7, 1941.

The Russian "fire bag" technique—nothing more than an ambush which has trapped advancing Nazi tank columns—was said to have been extremely successful on the defense.

The Russians said that everywhere along the front the battle was continuing on a large scale.

Berlin Claims Advance

(Berlin broadcasts declared that German forces had penetrated 36 miles northward toward Kursk in a thrust from the southern anchor of the battle front at Belgorod.)

While the German armies pushed hard against the Russian line from Orel to Belgorod, the Red army reported that it had held its own.

With grim satisfaction, the Russians noted that the German air force was so shaken by the first days of battle that it now is fighting with reduced squadrons, often composed of obsolete types of planes.

Soviet planes, maintaining the initiative, bombed the German rear for the fifth successive night. Not a plane was lost.

(A German announcement, broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by The Associated Press, declared 119 Russian planes were shot down over the Kursk area yesterday.)

Madame Chiang Nearly Landed on Jap Airport

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, July 10 — Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Chinese generalissimo, who returned here last Sunday after an extended tour of the United States and Canada, disclosed today that the plane carrying her home became lost on the flight from India and almost landed in Japanese territory.

She told newsmen that the plane, piloted by an American crew, accidentally followed the beam of a Japanese air field in Burma but that the pilot had a sudden hunch and pulled away just as he was on the verge of landing and turned back to Chungking.

"If it hadn't been for his hunch we would today have been the state guests of the imperial Japanese government," said China's first lady.

INVASION GIVES STOCKS BOOST

Peace Issues Gain but Others Fail To Find Benefit in Upswing.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 10 — Invasion of Sicily gave selected peace stocks a moderate lift in today's market but war leaders in other groups failed to recover the recovery of the previous session.

Rumblings over the Sicilian war mild profit taking on Friday's average upswing of 4 points which were Nov 4 1936. The thought here was that while investment demand still was strong and the funds growing more plentiful, technical conditions might cause a sizable reliance in the event of bearish international developments. Trainers were around 400,000 shares.

Highs for the move were posted for such stocks as Montgomery Ward, Penn-Dixie Cement & Ohio and Sinclair Oil. Some of these eventually backed away in the resistant area were Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Yellow Truck, Marshall Field, Standard Oil (N.J.) Du Pont, Allied Chemical, J. I. Case, Consolidated Edison, North American, Eastman Kodak and Johns-Manville.

PRESIDENT

der-belly of Europe," was his terse, exciting first remark.

He then asked those present not to say anything about the news until midnight.

This restriction was necessitated because of arrangements already made for a joint disclosure in North Africa, Washington and London by the military authorities.

Tells of Landings

The President then told what he knew of the landings and continued:

"The operations have begun. We won't get definite news until later, but the news will be coming in from now on."

The Chief Executive added:

"This is a good illustration of the fact of planning, not the desire for planning, but the fact of planning.

"With the commencing of the expedition in North Africa, with complete cooperation between the British and ourselves, that was followed by complete cooperation with the French in North Africa. The result, after landing, was the battle of Tunis. That was not all planning. That was cooperation, and from that time on we have been working in complete harmony.

"There are a great many objectives. Of course, the major objective is the elimination of Germany. That goes without saying. As a result of the step which is in progress at this moment, we hope it is the beginning of the end.

"Last autumn the prime minister of England called it the 'end of the beginning.' I think you can almost say that this action tonight is the beginning of the end.

"We are going to be ashore in a naval sense—air sense—military. Once there, we have the opportunity of going in different directions and I want to tell General Giraud that we have not forgotten that France is one of the directions.

Aim to Restore France

"One of our prime aims, of course, is the restoration of the people of France and the sovereignty of France. Even if a move is not directed at this moment to France itself, General Giraud can rest assured that the ultimate objective—we will do it and in the best way—is to liberate the people of France, not merly those in the southern part of France but the people in northern France—Paris—and in this whole operation, I should say rightly, that in the enormous planning we have had the complete cooperation of French military and naval forces in North Africa . . . gradually the opposition has cooled and the older regime is breaking down. We have seen what has happened or is happening at the present moment in Martinique and Guadeloupe. That is a very major point toward the big objective.

"We haven't won the war yet but one of the happy things is that with the help of General Giraud we have a unified military situation that goes a long way.

"We want to help rearm those French forces (Early explained the President referred to the forces in North Africa) and to build up the French strength so that when the time comes from a military point of view when we get into France and throw the Germans out, there will be a French army and French ships working with the British and ourselves.

"It is a very great symbol that Gen. Giraud is here tonight; that he has come over to talk to us about his military problems, to help toward the same objective that all of the United Nations have—the freedom of France and with it the unity of France."

The President spoke extemporaneously. Early said that the quotations which he gave were on the basis of notes and did not represent the President's complete remarks.

AP Correspondents To Take Over Radio Spots

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 10 — The BLU network's year-old Cross-the-Board 8 p. m. spot, with an 11 o'clock repeat, is to remain a news commentary and not transfer into music as had been intended for a time. But some changes are being made effective Monday.

Earl Godwin, on the program since it began, goes on an extended vacation, and Roy Porter, former AP war correspondent, who has been doing the Saturday and Sunday broadcast, will take over the full seven-night schedule.

A commentator new to the network, Max Hill who was chief of bureau for the AP at Tokyo prior to Pearl Harbor, is to handle Porter's morning series, Monday through Friday, at 10:15. Porter will continue as MC of the Weekly War Journal on Sundays.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Problems of Blind

DREAMS used to be the football of psychology; anybody could philosophize about them as much as he liked. Since the publication of Freud's "Interpretation of Dreams," however, they have become an extremely important source of interpretation of normal and abnormal states of thought. Naturally, in order to attain this changed status, it has been necessary to study them far more scientifically than was done in the old days.

I note for instance a very carefully checked study of the dreams of a blind person made by Dr. Arthur Kiehoty. He was stimulated to begin this study by experiences of people during a blackout, which have provided a better insight into the mental life of the blind.

Feelings of anxiety that come with the necessity to hide and hole up and the stimulation of the inner life the feeling of anxious expectation which occurs to normal people in a blackout, are duplicated in the mental life of the blind.

Treatment of Dreams

Dreams are treated by psychologists under the heading of the mental processes of the imagination and their value to a student of psychologic mechanisms consists in the fact that the experiences in dreams occur with a complete freedom from the ordinary inhibitions and self-criticisms that govern the actions while awake. For this reason Freud believed that they were good examples of wish fulfillment and by studying them, he was able to find out what the individual's innermost wishes were.

The senses work in modalities and with a graduated scale of modalities. Thus, the sense of hearing responds to sounds and distinguishes a musical scale with the notes in progressive arrangement, either higher or lower. The same thing is true of the sense of sight, although we do not quite so readily arrange colors in a graduated scale according to the spectrum.

Few Senses Conflict

Under no circumstances do the two modalities of sight and sound conflict. In other words, we never mistake a color for a musical sound. This is true of all the senses with the possible exception of taste and smell, which are sometimes likely to mix because neither of them is very definite. We say a thing smells sour and tastes sour.

In the case of the blind a great many substitutions do occur. Blind people have to imagine colors in terms of sound. Thus one of them said that she imagined red as the sound of a trumpet.

Pitfalls of Love

"What's wrong with it?" she [illegible] suddenly, and the [illegible] voice reminded me of the [illegible] once had heard coming [illegible] throat of a wild cat in the [illegible] Hampshire mountains.

Dicky Enjoys Himself

"It's really an allure[illegible] name," he went on. "It pictures [illegible] strong and capable, competent to deal with any [illegible] emergency, and with a real love for the wilds. And as far as that goes, I imagine that you [illegible] up to the name."

Through the crack in my door I saw Ruth Hazel [illegible] preen herself at the supposed compliment. But the next second she must have [illegible] disillusioned, for Dicky continued with his deflating process.

"But," he said, "one trait with which popular opinion [illegible] wilderness woman is [illegible] a sense of fair play—and never would permit its owner to lower herself to the practices in which you have indulged.

"What do you mean?" Again I noted the spirit in her voice, and felt that I must be on the alert. Dicky was goading her almost beyond endurance, and he not only was an impudent woman, but one whose repertoire boasted every treacherous trick of the words.

"It would take a longer time than I have to tell you all I mean," Dicky replied airily, "but I can outline a few high spots."

He paused, and poising the thumb of his right hand against the fingers and thumb of his left, made ready to tick off his points.

"First of all," he said, "I would cite the despicable campaign of lies, deceit and treachery you launched against Jack Bickell, because your colossal self-conceit could not endure the repulse he gave you."

In the old wives' phraseology, I thought The Wilderness Woman would burst as she heard this speech of Dicky's.

"You cheap liar," she stormed. "He never repulsed me. Instead ——"

"Oh—yeah?" Dicky interrupted her sharply, and no street gamin ever gave the response a more in- [illegible] indulgence, bound to beget resentment, jealousy, strife and reprisal. Shun emotional outbursts, over indulgences and periods of unhappiness, success and personal equanimity are to be preserved.

For Sunday, July 11

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds signs of a very lively and constructive condition although there may be deemed of much profit, gain and growth opportunities. The beneficial aspects may be negated by a tendency to reckless extravagances of the energies and emotions as well as funds. With restraint, conservative conduct and thrift there may be pleasant relation.
